Methodist Awards Summer Degrees

Addressing summer graduates of Methodist College Aug. 30, the Reverend Dr. Roger W. Ireson of Nashville, TN challenged them to "become servants of the mind and heart for a new generation."

Dr. Ireson is general secretary of the Board of Higher Education of the United Methodist Church, which supports 123 colleges, universities, and seminaries in America.

"Church and society are seen as places best served by the mind and the heart," said Dr. Ireson. "We believe that religion opens to us the heart and mind of God. We believe an education that is complete also has a religious dimension."

College President Elton Hendricks awarded 52 degrees to 51 students during the 16th summer commencement. Dr. Hendricks also presented a Methodist College Medallion to Dr. Ireson, in recognition of his service to Christian higher education.

Ms. Denise A. Guidotti presented the flag of France, her native country, to the college, bringing to 20 the number of flags given by international students.

NOTE: There is some duplication of names on this list. Those whose names are underlined received more than one degree.

The Patriots Commemorates Bicentennial

Editor's Note: North Carolina's Second Constitutional Convention ratified the U.S. Constitution Nov. 22, 1789 in Fayetteville, the state capital at that time. The Patriots is one of a series of special activities that will be held in Fayetteville to commemorate this event.

Methodist College, the N.C. Bicentennial Commission, and the Fayetteville/Cumberland County Bicentennial Committee will present The Patriots, a celebration of America's founding, Oct. 13-15.

The play will be staged Friday, Oct. 13 and Saturday, Oct. 14 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 15 at 2 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium on the Methodist College campus. Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

The Pulitzer-prize-winning play by Sidney Kingsley dramatizes the events that followed the signing of the U.S. Constitution in 1787. The action takes place in New York and Philadelphia from 1790-93 and focuses on the differing viewpoints of Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson regarding the governance of the new democracy.

The two-act production features a cast of 31, including graduates of six Fayetteville area high schools. The leading players include: Floyd Benfield as Thomas Jefferson, Daniel Covell as Alexander Hamilton, Patrice Spangler as Patsy Jefferson Randolph, and Pamela Johnson as Martha Jefferson. Dr. Jack Peyrouse, professor of theatre and speech at Methodist, is directing the play. Roberta High, a local theatre student, designed and created all the 18th century costumes for the play.

Alpha Psi Omega, a theatre sorority at Methodist, will serve dinners at 6:30 p.m. in the Reeves lobby just prior to the Oct. 13 and 14 performances of the play. The cost is $10 per person and reservations are required.

A French dinner, hosted by George Washington Lafayette (Chris Ward), will be served Oct. 13. A colonial dinner hosted by Dolly Madison (Pinky Jackson), Patsy Jefferson (Jane Collins), and Martha Washington (Betty Dunn) is planned for Oct. 14. To make dinner reservations, send a check or money order for $10 to: Alpha Psi Omega, Box 12055, Methodist College, Fayetteville, N.C. 28311.

For more information about The Patriots or the dinners, phone 1-800-232-7110, Extension 212.

Students Ignore Dangers Of Attack

by Caroline E. Bechard

Many incidents of personal attacks are reported throughout college campuses in North Carolina each year. These traumatic events could have been used by school authorities to help students become more aware of precautionary measures that should be taken to protect themselves from such threats. Instead, the incidents have been swept aside in an atmosphere of secrecy and embarrassment. Misconceived rumors begin to spread, and when the sensationalism has run its course, students remain naive and uninformed.

Just as the prevention of AIDS can only come about through public education, so too the risk of personal attack can be only lessened by making the public aware. In today's open society, there should be no excuse for any student to be vulnerable to an attack.

The following suggestions are given to help decrease the risk of personal attack:

- * Do not prop open dormitory exit doors for friends to enter. The person using that door may be someone looking for an easy prey. The victim could be YOU!

- * When walking from the CAC lab or library at night, walk with a friend or call the campus security for an escort. They are there for your protection.

- * At night, when outside jogging or simply "hanging around," stay in well lit areas. The school has recently added more lights in areas for your safety.

- * When recreating on campus or off, take a friend with you.

- * If you notice someone who is acting suspicious or find a stranger milling around the campus, immediately report him or her to campus authorities.

- * Although new windows have been installed in the dormitories to prevent anyone from entering through them, lock the doors and windows when alone, sleeping, or away.

The most important way of avoiding a personal attack is to be aware that it can happen. A few preventive measures will result in a safe and pleasant stay at Methodist College.

Lambda Chi Alpha On The Move

by Chris Laning

Lambda Chi Alpha has begun the fall semester with many changes and many new faces. On Oct. 6, nine Associate Members were initiated

"Bahama-Que" Sponsored

by Daniel Covell

The Methodist College Chorus will be presenting the "Bahama-Que" on Friday, November 3, 1989 outside the Horner Administration Building. The "Bahama-Que" is a fund raising barbecue to support the Chorus's spring tour. The barbecue plates, catered by Peadar's, will cost $5.00 and will be served 11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. Entertainment will be provided by the MC Chorus, and two traveling divisions of the Chorus, Rainbow's End and the Monarch Quartet. For complete information, call 488-7110, extension 256.

into the fraternity. Since then many more have become Associate Members.

The fraternity has a new adviser this year, Mr. John Walsh. Under the new leadership of their members and with Walsh' guidance, it looks to be a year of much activity.

Lambda Chi Alpha is an international general fraternity with 219 chapters and over 187,000 members, making it the third largest in the world. The Methodist College chapter began in 1974 and has been a great force in sponsoring campus wide events.

Some events planned for this year are: Lambda Chi's participation in the Crop Walk, a Long Drive Contest, four Blood Assurance Plan Blood Drives (the next one is November 8th), and various other campus and community events.

They will continue to rush new members throughout the year. If you are interested or have any questions, you should contact John Walsh, John Namath, or any other member.

Standards Improve

by Rhonda Hall

The 1989 fall semester is well under way and Methodist College Admission Counselors are working hard to recruit new students for the 1990 fall semester. Counselors have been traveling extensively since mid September and won't finish their recruiting efforts until the end of November.

Associate Director of Admissions, Jeff Brock, and Admission Counselors George Small and Deanne McDonald are presently touring North Carolina, Georgia, and Virginia. Soon they will visit New York, Florida, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

Although many of Methodist's students are initially attracted to the college because of its Division Three athletic programs, recruiters focus primarily on academic achievements. Their goal is to attract the brightest students from a variety of regions in this country as well as from abroad. Standard for admission continue to improve.

In the fall semester of 1989 a total of 1376 applications were submitted; the largest number in Methodist's history. Of these, 1023 students were accepted and 425 are currently enrolled. This years enrollment

Dr. Collins Autographs Book

Dr. Kenneth J. Collins, associate professor of philosophy and religion at Methodist College, autographed copies of his new book about John Wesley, Oct. 11 at 2 p.m. The autograph session was held in the lobby of the Horner Administration Building.

Entitled Wesley on Salvation: A Study in the Standard Sermons, Collins' book was recently published by Francis & Taylor Press. Dr. Collins has written numerous journal articles and papers on the theology of John Wesley, the founder of Methodism.

Dr. Collins has taught religion and philosophy at Methodist since 1986, and he served as college chaplain from 1984-86. He holds a Ph.D. from Drew University, master's degrees from Princeton Theological Seminary and Asbury Theological Seminary, and a bachelor's degree from the State University of New York at Buffalo.

Yearbook Portraits To Be Taken

rate Senior section in the yearbook.

Faculty and Staff should wear their normal workday attire. Since two photographers will be working on October 19, the waiting time should be minimal. All Seniors, Faculty and staff are encouraged to have their picture made on this date.

Portraits of underclassmen - Juniors, Sophomores & Freshman - will be made January 10 and 11, 1990. These students should dress in classroom attire.

The yearbook staff will group student portraits according to their class standing as of February 15th, 1990. The Registrars Office will provide lists by class based on semester hours completed.

The yearbook staff has selected a new photographer, Carlton Hubbard, to photograph students and staff. His prices range from $16.95 to $97.95 depending on the package selected.

To Write Or Not To Write

by Betty Darden

To write, or not to write seems to be the question on several students' lips these days. What really surprised me was that a great majority of these students were in the Communications Department. I found this hard to believe at first, being a third year Communication major myself. I have always been taught that writing for the school newspaper was a privilege. It never occurred to me that there weren't hundreds of people dying for this honor.

When I took over the reins of editor this semester I was shocked to find that even the people who wrote for it last year were not particularly interested in seeing their thoughts and ideas in print. What the students here at Methodist don't seem to understand is that we on the staff of Small Talk need their help if we're going to make this publication everything it should be.

Not only has the editor of Small Talk changed but so has the adviser. Our new adviser is Tricia Turner. She was the editor of Small Talk for three years while she was a student here.

Tricia and I feel that if we all work together we can make big things happen for Small Talk. Small Talk has been presented with several awards in the past, and we feel that with your help we can be an award winning publication once again.

Please remember that writing for your college newspaper is an honor that only comes once in a lifetime. If you are interested in writing for Small Talk, we will be having a meeting on Monday, October 16th at 10:00 a.m. The meeting will be held in the Publications Office which is located in the Student Union.

If you would like to be on the newspaper staff but are unable to be at the meeting, please see me or Tricia as soon as possible as we have several deadlines to meet.

Anyone wishing to write an editorial about their feelings on a certain issue should place them in the box on the door of the Publications Office or send them to the Small Talk box number which is 12294.

I hope to see everyone at the meeting Monday, and I'm sure that this will be our greatest year ever.

Sincerely,
Betty Darden
Editor

Dear Gabby

Dear Gabby,

I have been seeing a boy here at school since the beginning of the semester. He is everything I ever dreamed a guy could be, and more. He treats me like a queen and worships the ground I walk on. I have one major problem though that is ruining an otherwise perfect relationship. My boyfriend is black and I am white. Although I am not prejudiced my father is. I have told my family about my new boyfriend, but have omitted this one detail. They are very happy for me because I seem to have dated in high school. Gabby, I just don't know what to do. If I tell my folks, then they might make me quit school and go home. But if I don't tell them, then this lie could eat away at me until I can't stand it anymore. Please help!

Signed,
Tired of Lying

Dear Tired,

Although this problem is a complicated one I think that deep down you may already know the answer. You showed that by the way you signed your letter. You should tell your parents the truth. The longer you wait the worse the consequences may be. I don't believe that your parents would make you quit school in the middle of a semester after they have spent their hard earned money to send you here. If it is impossible to see them in person at the present time, then I think the best way for you to tell them would probably be over the phone. You should do this as soon as possible. If you really care for this guy I think your parents will hear it in your voice and will be a little more understanding. I'm sure, all prejudices aside, that your parents' main objective is for you to be happy. That's really all any parent wants for their children. I think that you may be pleasantly surprised at how they handle the truth. I hope that for your sake and for theirs that you get this whole thing out in the open very soon. Then you can get on with your happy relationship without this cloud hanging over your head. As it stands now this isn't fair to anyone—not you, not your boyfriend, and not your parents.

Gabby

Dear Gabby,

Although I made straight A's in high school I seem to be having a lot of trouble with my college courses. I spend all my time studying but still find myself falling short of my usual good grades. I have spent hours working on a paper only to receive a mediocre grade. I am taking a course load of 18 semester hours and I don't seem to be doing exceptionally well in any of them. I feel myself getting more and more discouraged by the day and have even considered quitting school and moving back home. I'm getting so depressed that I don't know what to do. I have absolutely no time for any outside interests so I don't even have friends that I can turn to. I hope that you can help me with this problem Gabby. I'm becoming desperate.

Signed,
Desperate and Depressed

Dear Desperate,

The first thing that you need to do is reevaluate your case load. The minimum amount of credit hours that you can take is 12. Maybe you are expecting too much from yourself. You are only human and if you push yourself too hard, then it is very likely that you will become discouraged and quit. Maybe if you lessen your class schedule you would have more time for socializing. Making friends is a very important part of college life, and if you had more friends then you probably wouldn't be so depressed. The first couple of months in a new place is always hard. I'm sure that if you ease up a little then you will begin to enjoy school, not dread it and hopefully everything else will just fall into place.

Gabby

Dear Gabby is a bi-monthly publication designed to help those of you who have problems. If you have something you would like to talk over and feel the need for confidentiality then Gabby is the person for you. Gabby will try to print replies for all of the letters that she receives. You may place your letters in the box on the door of the publications room or you may send them to Small Talk Box #12294. All letters will be kept confidential.

Standards Improve
count is down 20 students from last year; but, according to Director of Admissions, Fiore Bergamasco, "This is only because 1988 was an exceptionally good year."

As a result of increased interest in Methodist College generated by the efforts of Admission personnel, there has been a noticeable improvement in the quality of the entering students. The "average" entering student this semester was ranked in the top 37% of his/her graduating class. The average SAT score is now above 900, and approximately 60% of all enrolling students now qualify for academic scholarships.

by R. Wayne Slaten

The summer of 1989 marked the third and final chapter in the saga of "Indiana Jones", we were allowed to explore close encounters of the "wet" kind in the "Abyss", but the blockbuster of blockbusters this summer was the return of a 50 year old hero... Batman.

With the return of the caped crusader to the screen, the country was struck with a wave of "Batmania". Shirts, posters, tennis shoes, and even a hot soundtrack by Prince showed just how popular this hero of 50 years really is. With this resurgence of interest, the Batman's original source of media, the comic book, has gained popularity as well with the 2nd printing of The Dark Knight Returns by Frank Miller. Originally released in 1986 this comic has popped up again in bookstores due to "Batmania".

Why would a college student be interested in a comic when there are so many other literary forms and topics available? "...Probably the finest piece of comic art ever to be published in a popular edition..." Stephen King, is one reason to take note of this comic book. Another is the writing and twisted yet enjoyable story line. One example being the Joker feeding poisoned cotton candy to a troop of boy scouts. Something that would never have been witnessed on the campy Batman T.V. series of the 1960's.

The Dark Knight Returns is a revisionist, 200 page, pop epic about Batman's middle-aged return from a brooding retirement. The series takes place sometime early in the next century, but it revises the violent film noir tone of the 1940's. "Dark Knight" creator, Frank Miller (not to be mistaken for the creator of Batman - Bob Kane), began shaking up the insular, inbred world of comics in 1979 when, at the age of 22, he moved to Manhattan from Vermont to take over the drawing chores on Marvel comics long-running "Daredevil" series. Though he looked back to such comic artist idols as Will Eisner, creator of the Spirit, his style was immediately distinctive. He sliced the page into thin slivers, shattered it, threw thick shadows across it at extreme, expressionist angles. "This is not illustration," Miller asserts in a recent interview of his boldly stylized approach to the medium. "This is cartooning."

When Miller took over the writing of "Daredevil" a year later, he brought the storytelling into even tighter congruence with his drawing, spinning intense underbelly-of-the-city yarns full of mixed motives, petty thugs, seductive female assassins, and bands of marauding Ninja. He left Marvel Comics in 1983, jumping over to the company's chief rival, D.C. Comics, to create the six-part "Ronin", a futuristic exploration of his favorite Japanese martial-arts motifs.

Though Miller is again dabbling with the "Daredevil" series it was his Dark Knight Returns four-part miniseries that made him popular. The books have now been bound into one volume. Miller's violent approach to the Batman reanimates the Caped Crusader as a killer, a vigilante, a figure of controversy hunted by the authorities, and a stalking beast of the urban jungle. Now in middle age, Bruce Wayne's alter ego won't leave him in peace. "In my gut," says Bruce, "The creature writhes and snarls and tells me what I need."

The "Dark Knight" paints a really grim portrait of how the world works. One of the reasons that comics aren't doing as well as they used to is that the characters are completely out of date, particularly in social and political terms. We live in rather frightening times, yet these super hero comics give a benevolent picture of the world. That was until Miller's comic emerged.

If Bruce Wayne is 50 years old, "Dark Knight" must be a futuristic story? Actually it isn't, though technically it has to be set in the future because the story ignores the current Batman continuity. The character of the United States President is not a very carefully disguised parody of Ronald Reagan. One of the main themes is that we live in an heroic age. Batman being out of place is an important part of the story. Everything he does is illegal, he's up against authority. It all culminates with Batman having to fight Superman, who is also in his 50's but due to his crypton aging process looks 25. Batman isn't a reactionary, he's a radical. The only conservative character in the book is Superman, who takes his orders directly from the President and helps track down welfare violators.

As odd as this whole comic book seems, it makes for a very enjoyable time to read. Whether you are a Batman nostalgia-nut or have never picked up a comic book before, the Dark Knight Returns proves to be a welcomed surprise to the Batman character.

Frank Miller has recently released a new comic epic in his Batman series title Batman: Year One. Both books are available at Walden Books, retail $12.95.

Pacino Scores With "Sea Of Love"

by Daniel Covell

When certain actors appear in films, great things are expected; take Marlon Brando, for instance. After an absence of almost 12 years, Brando will return to the big screen with two movies to be released soon: "The Dry White Season", with Donald Sutherland, and "The Freshman", with Matthew Broderick. Whether or not these films are good isn't the main concern. The big critical question is "How is Brando's performance?" When and actor of Brando's stature makes films, these films come under closer scrutiny than others because people basically expect more from them.

Another actor who is expected to create great things is Al Pacino. As a result, "Sea of Love" has come under a lot of fire from critics and audiences alike. The bottom line is, if Pacino is in it; it has to be good.

Well, "Sea of Love" isn't good... it's spectacular! Excellent actors took a better than average story and turned it into a great film.

In "Sea of Love", Pacino plays Frank Keller, a Manhattan policeman with a mid-life crisis. After 20 years on the police force, Frank suddenly realizes that he has nothing to show for his life. His wife has divorced him (and married Frank's co-worker), he has no children, and his loneliness drives him to the bottle for solace.

At a policeman's banquet, Frank meets Detective Sherman (played by John Goodman, of TV's Roseanne), who tells Frank about a case they have in common. Two men, one in Manhattan, one in Queens, have been murdered in their beds, and a lady caller is suspected. After deciding to work together, Frank found that both men put personal ads in the New York Weekly, and devises a plan. Frank proposes to put his own ad in the weekly, set up dates with the women who answer, get their fingerprints on a glass, and compare them to the prints found in the rooms of the murdered men.

Frank and Sherman put their plan into effect. Things are going smoothly until Frank meets Helen Cruger (played by Ellen Barkin), one of the women who answered the ad, and falls in love with her. As the relationship between Frank and Helen progresses, clues start to point to Helen as the killer. Frank is then forced to ask himself if the woman he loves is a murderer.

"Sea of Love" is an example of what happens when talented actors make a movie together. Ellen Barkin's portrayal of Helen shows the same intensity seen in her performance in "The Big Easy". The erotic sex scenes she has with Pacino are absolutely blistering. Pacino's role of Frank takes the audience in and holds them until the shocking ending.

Al Pacino has had a career marked by great success. "Sea of Love" is another accomplishment that further embellishes his standing as a talented performer.

Comedian David Naster Captivates Students

by Melissa Horne

On September 28, 1989 Methodist College students were held captive in their own Lion's Den by Comedy Commando David Naster. Very humorously, he enticed the audience to participate in his at times impromptu act. In addition to entertaining the students, he was also able to help them learn more about school activities, degree programs, and most importantly, each other.

David Naster proved that he is more than just another funny man. This comedy act served two very important roles. First it helped to relieve a lot of stress that all students experience when involved in a college curriculum that is filled with hours of classes and studying throughout the week. Second it promoted communication among students and unification of the student body as a whole, which is extremely important. All students at Methodist share a common bond. This performance, in its involvement of the audience, helped to form a sense of camaraderie.

So, with many laughs, David Naster cheered the students' spirits up and their school spirit on. If "laughter is the best medicine", then this writer will take two doses. The performance was excellent in conception and delivery.

The next performer, Rondell Sheridan, will be here on October 19 at 8:00 p.m. in the Lion's Den. David Naster gave him great reviews and encouraged all the students to attend. Mark your calendars "for a good time," see you in the Lion's Den on the 19th!

Comedian David Naster is a hit at Methodist College.

Teacher Training Program Approved

The N.C. Department of Public Instruction has approved Methodist College's expanded teacher training curriculum for training French and Spanish teachers for grades K-12.

Methodist has expanded its existing foreign language program for training secondary French and Spanish teachers to include courses for teaching these languages in the elementary grades. Under North Carolina's Basic Education Program, all students in the elementary grades must be exposed to a second language by 1992.

The Foreign Language Department at Methodist is among the first in the state to meet the criteria for second language certification of elementary teachers in French and Spanish. In the summers of 1988 and 1989, the department offered language institutes to train teachers in mechanics, methods, and oral proficiency for the elementary grades.

Mrs. Elaine Porter, head of Methodist's foreign language department, said the state's new second language program has led to an increase in enrollment in French and Spanish courses and prompted numerous inquiries from degree teachers who wish to extend their certification.

Evening and summer classes are available to help those already employed obtain second language certification for grades K-12. In order to meet the demand, Methodist is now offering more upper level courses in French, Spanish, and German, as well as conversation and methods courses in the evening.

Dance Was A Big Hit

by Dawn Thompson

The "Club Coca Cola" Dance, which took place on August 24, 1989, was a big hit for all students at Methodist. It was well worth the time and effort the Students Activities Council (S.A.C.) put forth to make this event a tremendous success. S.A.C. stated, "that this activity was one of the best attended events that Methodist has had in a long time." The dance was designed to welcome back upper classmen and incoming freshmen. It also offered an opportunity for everyone to get to know each other. The videos were a great addition to the dance. The cross over music appealed to everyone in attendance. Chris Ryan, the Assistant Dean for Student Affairs and Advisor for A.S.A.C., would like to thank all the S.A.C. members, that participated in this event, for all their hard work and enthusiasm for making this event possible. S.A.C. would also like to thank Jim Kennedy and his assistant Pat for an outstanding job as video jockeys. For all those who did not attend, you missed a terrific event. For upcoming events check your activities calendar.

President Speaks

Did God give Moses the 10 suggestions? That was the question posed by Dr. M. Elton Hendricks, president of Methodist College, at the school's opening convocation September 11.

In an address to the student body, Dr. Hendricks decried the fact that many people in the modern world "no longer assume there is an external moral principle which they are obliged to obey."

Comparing modern morality to the ecology of our planet, President Hendricks said no human actions are without moral assumptions or consequences. "Even as education should raise our consciousness about garbage, it should cause us to evaluate and examine our values," he said.

President Hendricks said his plan for addressing the value issue in education is based on three premises: 1) Any educational institution worthy of the label educational must be concerned with the teaching of values and morality, 2) Some moral and value systems are better than others, and 3) Discovering the good and calling for commitment to it is a primary task of education.

Citing the monetary motives of drug peddlers and greed in the business world, President Hendricks said laws alone will not solve these problems. He said educated people must accept an obligation to do what is morally right.

Luncheons Planned

Methodist College will offer a series of 10 luncheon meetings this year designed to bring students, faculty and townspeople together to discuss important issues.

Entitled "Stirring the Cauldron," the series opened Thursday, Sept. 28. The topic for the first meeting was "AIDS." Each meeting will begin at noon and last one hour.

Townspeople, students, and faculty will go through the cafeteria line and dine together in the Alumni Dining Room of the Student Union. The cafeteria opens for lunch at 11:30 a.m. and discussions will begin at noon. The cost of the lunch is $2.75.

Townspeople interested in attending a meeting are asked to phone the college switchboard (488-7110) to make reservations.

A schedule of meetings, topics and coordinators follows:

Oct. 19 — "Impressionists" (illustrated lecture), Peggy Hinson

Oct. 26 — "The Mob as a Revolutionary Instrument", Parker Wilson

Nov. 2 — "The Drug Cartel and U.S. Involvement", Wayne Preslar & Collett Forsythe

Nov. 30 — "Flag Burning", Ken Collins & Jen Hsiang Lin

Feb. 1 — "Legalizing Prostitution", Emily Scamon & Jane Cherry

Feb. 22 — "A North Carolina (Continued on pg. 4)

Football Fever

The Methodist College football team lead by Coach John Crea has had some pretty tough play this season. They are preparing this week to take on Davidson College on the Monarch Field.

The rookie team is presently 0-5, but they still approach every game with a positive attitude. There definitely is a competitive streak among the team as they have taken on some top contenders.

Assistant Coaches Jeff Cusack, John Hobby, Carlton McCall and Mike Sinkovitz, are looking forward to the game this weekend. The game will begin at 1:30 on Saturday, October 14th.

Students and faculty members should come out to support the Monarchs. Come early and join in on one of the tailgate parties that are becoming a tradition at Methodist.

Tennis Roundup

by Michael S. Elliott

With some heavy recruiting by Coach Pete Kendall, the men's varsity tennis team will be very young this season. The only returning player is sophomore Jeff Hawes. The remaining players which are all freshmen, include: Phil Baillios, Jonathan Terry, Tom Maze, Brian May, Jeff Hayes, Marc Tyndale, Pat Maruch, John Scrivanti, Robb Chamberlain, and Rick Payne.

Coming off a second place finish in the conference last year, the team is hoping to take over the top spot. Trips to the Rolex Invitational in Lander, South Carolina and Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia are scheduled for the year. A win at both locations could improve their chances in winning the DIAC title.

The young team got off to a great start by beating St. Andrews on October 4th. The Monarchs overpowered them by the score of 8-1. This impressive victory boosted the team's confidence when they took on Pembroke State on Saturday, October 7th.

The ladies team last year won the first place trophy in the conference tournament. This year they are trying to improve their national ranking of 32. The returning players for this season are led by Dorian Droeg, of Florida, Laurie Brucker from Pennsylvania, and Amanda Cook from Greensboro, NC. The new faces on the squad include: Laurie Gustafsson of Florida, Sandy Rozenboom from Iowa, Tracy Maness from Texas, and Heather Owen of Pennsylvania. So far another conference title for the women's tennis team looks promising.

Golf News

The Other Team

Methodist college has developed an excellent tradition in men's and women's golf in NCAA Division III play. The women's golf team is currently ranked number one in the country and is trying to win its 5th consecutive national title. The men's golf team is also ranked number one in the nation and is pursuing its first national championship after a second place finish last spring. With all of this, the other golf team on campus, the Professional Golf Management Club Team, tends to be forgotten or overlooked.

The club team is a group of PGM students who failed to make the varsity team in an earlier qualifier this fall. These students will participate in tournaments during the fall semester to gain a position on the varsity team in the spring. The club plays in tournaments against each other and the top ten from each event will tie up in competition with other colleges and universities. The club is very competitive and is presently undefeated in the last two years. On Sept. 15 at Deercroft Country Club, the PGM team defeated St. Andrews and Pfeiffer College in a tri-match. Scott Kakabar was the medalist with the low score of 75. Other Methodist College participants that day were Jon Lust, Mike Riddle, Frank Radice, Rick Fontz, Mike Amisberg, Frank Leja, Greg Calvin, and Bryan Bechard. The teams that our club competes against are actually other varsity squads from different schools, which makes their undefeated mark more impressive.

The purpose of the PGM club team is to offer competition to all the golfers on campus and to find some talented players that did not make the varsity golf team after the fall qualifier. At the present time Eric Haile from Chalfont, PA is leading the club with a nine hole average of 36.5. At the end of the fall semester the top 5 players on the club team will qualify in February for a spot on the varsity team.

Make sure you keep an eye on the other golf team, the Professional Golf Management Club Team. They may not win a national championship, but they make their presence known among other varsity teams. With the low scores that these players are shooting the members of the Methodist College varsity team have to stay on their toes.

Austin's Boys Look Strong

by Michael S. Elliott

Coach Tom Austin is expecting another fine season from his Monarch baseball team. After losing such key players as All-American Richard Seagraves and All-American Michael Brewington he must be wondering who will fill their shoes.

Austin is very accustomed to producing winners. Names like Michael Currie, Danny Hardline (who played for the Baltimore Orioles organization) and Michael Brewington (who is currently playing for the Pirates organization) come to mind when we think about how Coach Austin can shape and mold ball players. Austin's knowledge of the game and his great ability to teach it can make any one of his players an All-American. But a question remains: Who will it be this year? Will it be sophomore Greg Cox at first base, or will it be senior centerfielder Robbie Moreau? Rod Jones, a senior on the pitching staff, was honored with that prestigious award last year. Will he have another fine season and repeat as a two time All-American? And what about the newcomers? Are the young talented players that the coach recruited this year going to be as good and successful as players in years past? Under Coach Austin's supervision the opportunities seem limitless.

This year's pitching staff was hurt by the loss of Richard Seagraves, but with Eric Holle, Bill Halliburton, and Rodney Jones the Monarchs should be ready to win, and win they will. Tom Austin is not accustomed to losing. He will teach these young men how to win and how to be winners.

The outfield will be young and inexperienced. The only returning starter will be second team All-DIAC player Robbie Moreau. He will be in centerfield and in charge of the outfield. Hopefully, second year player Tommy Smothers will fill a vacant spot in leftfield. He will be the replacement for All-American Michael Brewington. Austin will miss Brewington's power and speed but Smothers has the ability to replace him without losing any strength in that position.

Joe Corretjer will return to play shortstop. He is one of the best fielding shortstops in the division and he will be a great asset to Austin's infield. Behind the plate will be Robbie Terry. Terry has a strong arm and is just waiting for the opportunity to gun out runners trying to steal a base on him.

Last year the team finished with an astonishing record of 33-3. Coach Tom Austin and the Monarchs were invited to participate in their 8th consecutive NCAA Tournament. They were ranked number one in the nation at the end of regular season play, but the team stumbled and fell in the Southern Regional Tournament.

But that was the 1989 season. Those statistics are written down and filed away. This is the 1990 season. There are new records to be broken and new honors and accomplishments to be had. There will be new names and new faces for a new decade, but Tom Austin will still be in charge of his Monarch dynasty and will continue to produce some of baseball's finest.

The Forces Behind Homecoming '1989'

Lynn Byrd, Director of Alumni Affairs looks forward to Homecoming.

Hunt Announced

by Kevin Carlson

In the spirit of the homecoming theme, "the roaring twenties" the investigation into the whereabouts of Al Capone's missing vault has been reopened. Rumors have been circulating that the reason Gerald Rivera was unsuccessful in his attempt to uncover the hidden vault back in Chicago is because the vault is actually right here on the Methodist College campus.

On Wednesday, October 25th, at the 10 o'clock break the first clue was handed out from the Student Affairs Office to persons or teams interested in joining the search. Each clue leads students to a certain location where they will receive another clue to continue their search.

There are five locations with one location containing a campus map that will be needed later. At the fifth location each team will receive a transparency with an "x" to mark the location of the hidden vault. The team that correctly lines up the transparency on the campus map will discover the area of the elusive vault. The first team to find the vault will cash in on the prizes contained within, estimated worth between fifty and seventy-five dollars.

Share The Joy

by Chris Laning

With the new campus minister, Clare Clyburn assuming the role of adviser, Koinonia, the religious life student organization, is ready to kick off a great year. The officers and active members of Koinonia have planned many events.

The next major event to be sponsored by Koinonia is the annual Faith-in-Life Week. This has been scheduled for November 5th through the 10th. The guest speaker for the week will be Ellen Metcalf, a Methodist minister from Raleigh who is starting a new church. It should be a fun week which will help students to grow closer as a community and in their own faith. Additional information including events during this week will be distributed soon to all students. Questions regarding this event can be referred to Lee Pittard, Wendy Bair, Jennifer Seamon or Rev. Clyburn.

Another event will be the All Saints Day service at 12 midnight, Oct. 31/Nov. 1, in Hensdale Chapel. This is a perfect way to finish celebrating Halloween, and to celebrate a holiday even more important. All students faculty and staff members are invited and encouraged to attend. Koinonia also sponsors many weekly events. These include: Prayer Breakfast - Fridays, 7:15 a.m., Alumni Dining Room, Communion Service - Thursdays, 7:30 p.m., in the Hensdale Chapel, and Share Group - Sundays, 9 p.m., basement of Garber.

All students are eligible to become members of Koinonia. The events sponsored by Koinonia are open to nonmembers also, but if anyone is looking for a fun group to spend time with, then this is a club to consider.

by Betty Darden

This year's homecoming festivities promise to be an enjoyable time for students and alumni alike. There are a variety of activities planned that will appeal to everyone. While enjoying these events, whether it is the sidewalk carnival or the dance, there is something which should be kept in mind. There are a great deal of people who spent a lot of time and energy making this all possible.

First on the list to recognize is the Alumni Association. Many students do not realize that Homecoming was created for the Alumni. It is a time when people who were once students here can return from their foray into the real world, whether it's after one year or twenty-five years, and share with their fellow students and teachers their accomplishments and experiences. Lynn Byrd, the Director of Alumni Affairs, feels that there will be a very good turn out this year. Perhaps more so than in recent years because of the new football team and a promised sneak preview of the Physical Activities Center, which is due to open at the end of December. Lynn said, "many of the alumni come for just one or two activities, some will just bring their kids to the sidewalk carnival, while others will be here specifically for the football game. A majority of them, however, will attend everything, from the carnival to Sunday Mass in Hensdale Chapel. The highlight of the weekend will be 'The Alumni Banquet on Saturday.'" At the banquet they plan to recognize several outstanding alumni and faculty.

They will also be recognizing the reunion classes at the banquet, these will be the class of '79', the class of '74', the class of '69' and the class of '64' which will be the first twenty-five year reunion at Methodist. After the President greets the alumni they will recognize some of the faculty that have been here for an extended period of time. Certificates will go to Tom Austin and Dr. Linda Sue Barnes for ten years of hard work. While Virginia Godwin and Nancy Boshier will receive certificates for being at Methodist for fifteen years.

There will also be some fun prizes awarded for such things as the alumnus who drove the longest distance or the one who has had the most relatives, including themselves, to attend Methodist College. There will be musical entertainment performed by Lesly Rowell a bass singer from the class of '84'. He will sing two selections and will be accompanied by Buddy Kearns who is also from the class of '84'.

Another important event during the banquet will be the awards ceremony. There will be three awards presented this year. The first will be the Outstanding Alumni Service Award, which will go to Susan Younst Jaeger, class of '81'. She is an alumni board member and serves on the Social Committee that prepares for Homecoming. She also served as the Alumni Director for a short time. Next is the Outstanding Faculty Member Award. This will go to Elaine Porter, not only for her contribution as a language teacher but for her work with the Elder Hostile as well. She was also instrumental in getting the programs started this summer for Methodist's language institute.

The last award to be given is not one that is presented every year. This is a Distinguished Alumnus Award. It goes this year to Jack Langley, class of '70'. He has earned this award through service to his community, his church, and his profession. Jack had an accident several years ago which left him paralyzed from the neck down. He has overcome his handicap and is active in several service organizations, as well as finding time to coach basketball. He is truly an inspiration to all.

There will be several things planned throughout the dinner relating to the twenty's theme. Many of the alumni will go on to the dance where there will be a hospitality room set up so that they can take a break from the festivities when the need arises.

Jack Hunter, class of '64', will head the chapel service the next day and Parker Wilson has a talk planned in the Library at 3:00 p.m. After talking with Lynn it is evident that this will be one of the most successful turnouts ever.

The other force behind this year's Homecoming that should be commended is the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Actually the majority of preparation for Homecoming was made by the Student Activities Council (S.A.C.). S.A.C. is a subcommittee of the S.G.A. There are about 16 people on this committee that spent many of their evenings and weekends trying to come up with good ideas for Homecoming. The festivities for the students, who came up with the twenty's theme, began at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday. This was when the first clue was given out in the search for Al Capone's vault. Kevin Carlson, the president of S.G.A., spoke of other activities which are planned for the weekend. There will be a Charleston Dance Contest, as well as the Popcorn Theater, which was written and directed by one of the students at Methodist, Scott Enerson. There will be Casino Night, which should be lots of fun for everyone. There will also be a volleyball tournament which will consist of twenty teams this year. Kevin hopes to make this a yearly tradition at Methodist.

The Homecoming Dance will be at the Holiday Inn this year and the band that will be playing is The Maxx. A shuttle service will be provided by Student Affairs for students needing a ride to and from the dance. Many of the students rent rooms in the hotel to eliminate the hazards of returning to the college late at night.

Whether you are an alumni or a student there is something for everyone's enjoyment this year. So please remember, that while you're looking for clues for hidden treasures or being reunited with former classmates and dancing the night away, there are several people you really should thank when the excitement dies down. If it was not for them none of this could have been possible. Have a safe and happy Homecoming, and PLEASE DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE!

ROTC Cadets Are #1

While many students were enjoying the summer at the beach, the ROTC cadets of Methodist College went to advanced camp and proved that they were the best. They did this in not only one area, but in six areas.

Advanced Camp is attended by all ROTC cadets throughout the country during the summer between their junior and senior year. At camp, cadets are evaluated to determine their leadership potential and are graded in the following areas: physical fitness, marksmanship, land navigation and demonstrated leadership potential. Methodist College cadets, as part of the Campbell University Battalion, attended Camp

All-American at Fort Bragg, along with 3,300 other cadets from ROTC's First Region, which includes schools from Maine to South Florida.

At the conclusion of camp, Methodist College along with sister school cadets of Campbell University and Pembroke State University had 70% of their cadets finish in the top 30% and 52% finish in the top 10% of all the cadets in attendance. The Battalion also won all six of the institutional awards given at camp. These awards were: Land Navigation, Army Physical Fitness Test, Leadership Proficiency, Overall Excellence and Military Proficiency. There were also cadets in the individual awards category to include - 2 Regimental Leadership winners, 3 Company Leadership winners and 4 Platoon Leadership winners.

The cadets of Methodist College definitely blew the top off the Camp. The cadets on campus can be seen training hard. Anyone interested is invited to join in. All students are encouraged to become a part of the number one ROTC program in the country. For more information contact a cadet or the ROTC department.

Club Elects Officers

by Melissa Kane

The History and Political Science Club has elected new officers for the 1989 fall semester. Lori Carver was elected the new president. She served as the acting president for several weeks before the elections took place. The rest of the new officers are: Frankie Atkins, Vice President; Melissa Kane, Secretary; and Barbara Hogge, Treasurer.

The club opened the semester with a campus-wide seminar for anyone who was interested in becoming a lawyer. Andrew Dempster, an Assistant District Attorney in Fayetteville, spoke on September 29th in the Alumni Dining Room. Mr. Dempster gave an informative talk on what could be expected in Law School, his work as a D.A., and his current campaign for District Court Judge.

Interested students are encouraged to attend the club meetings. Membership is not limited to history and political science majors. The club is planning many events and field trips. One of the trips planned is to The Museum of the Cape Fear. For more information plan to attend future meetings.

State Approves Language Program

The N.C. Department of Public Instruction has approved Methodist College's expanded teacher training curriculum for training French and Spanish teachers for grades K-12.

Methodist has expanded its existing foreign language program for training secondary French and Spanish teachers to include courses for teaching these languages in the elementary grades. Under North Carolina's Basic Education Program, all students in the elementary grades must be exposed to a second language by 1992.

The Foreign Language Department at Methodist is among the first in the state to meet the criteria for second language certification of elementary teachers in French and Spanish. In the summers of 1988 and 1989, the department offered language institutes to train teachers in materials, methods, and oral proficiency for the elementary grades. Teachers were able to instruct small groups of elementary age youngsters and received renewal credits for all coursework.

Mrs. Elaine Porter, head of Methodist's foreign language department, said the state's new second language program has led to an increase in enrollment in French and Spanish courses and prompted numerous inquiries from degree teachers who wish to extend their certification. She is excited about the growth of the foreign language program at Methodist and the approval of the teacher training program.

Evening and summer classes are available to help those already employed obtain second language certification for grades K-12. In order to meet the demand, Methodist is now offering more upper-level courses in French, Spanish, and German, as well as conversation and methods courses in the evening.

For more information on Methodist's training programs for second language teachers, contact Mrs. Elaine Porter, 488-7110, Extension 249.

Get Up And Get Involved

by Betty Darden

I hear people complaining every day about sitting around their dorm room for lack of anything better to do. They say there is never anything fun going on around campus. The problem with these students is that they are sitting around waiting for the fun to come to them. Well, everyone has probably realized by now that life just doesn't work that way. You may actually have to leave your room for more than classes and food and join in on an activity. There are all kinds of organizations here on campus; which means there is almost always something going on, whether it is in the Student Union, the auditorium or on the athletic field. There is bound to be something here for you.

You need to pay more attention to the posters adorning the walls of this fine college. The people who invest their time and effort in these signs did it for you not themselves. They are there to inform you of an upcoming event that you may be interested in. Also, read those flyers that are placed in your mailbox. Don't just fold them into paper airplanes and send them over your friend's head and into a trash can. That glider could contain something you might want to know more about.

I know that many of you are just counting the days until fall break begins so that you can see your family and friends once again. As long as your going to be here, why not do something fun with your spare time?

As all of you know by now, (if you've read the posters, and flyers), Homecoming is right around the corner, and it has something for everyone. This year's theme is the "roaring 20's". From Casino Night and a Charleston Contest to the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night and Parker Wilson speaking in the library on Sunday, this is definitely going to be five days full of fun, fun, fun. The festivities began at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, October 25th and will end Sunday afternoon. Please refer to your calendar on page 3 for more information.

Now you are probably thinking "sure but what will there be to do after Homecoming?" If you are thinking this, then you haven't been paying attention to what I'm saying. The point is, you need to get involved. Not just during Homecoming, but all of the time. Don't just whine about having nothing to do, because as you've seen there are a lot of fun activities going on all of the time. Homecoming is just the icing on the cake. Join some clubs that may interest you or go to some of the many sports events around campus to show your school spirit. See if the theater, music or art departments need any help. They can always use an extra pair of hands for a variety of things.

Only you can make your college years some of the greatest of your life. So don't just sit there thinking about it, get out and DO IT!

So how was your weekend, class... class?

Dear Gabby

Dear Gabby:

I have had a major crush on a guy in my science class since the beginning of the semester. The only problem is that he doesn't seem to know that I exist. I've tried talking to him but he basically ignores me. He's smiled at me once or twice and even says hi to me when I pass him in the hall; other than that we have no contact with each other. I know that if he would just talk to me for a while I would be able to win him over. I've never been much to look at, but all my friends tell me that I have a great personality. I had lots of boyfriends in high school, but that was always after we had been friends for a while first. Should I give up on this guy Gabby or should I keep trying, hoping that one day he'll notice me?

Signed,
Hopeful and Waiting

Dear Hopeful:

The first thing that you need to do is to ask yourself if this guy is worth all of this. If the answer is yes, then maybe you need to do something a little different to take this fellow by surprise. You said in your letter that you've never been much to look at. You shouldn't be so quick to sell yourself short. Although it's true that looks aren't everything they are what it takes sometimes to get someone to notice you. A new hairstyle and clothes can do wonders for your self-confidence. I'm sure that this change in you will get this guy's attention. After you've gotten that, then you can let your great personality take over. I must add, however, if the only way to get this guy to notice you is to improve your appearance then you may be better off without him. Only time can tell.

Gabby

Dear Gabby,

I am 23-years-old and a Senior at Methodist. I have this mad crush on an older man. Well, he's not too old, he's only older than me. He's extremely attractive and seems to have a great sense of humor. He also has a great warm personality. The strange thing about this is that he is not at all the kind of person that I'm usually attracted to. I usually go for guys that are about my age and about 6 ft. tall. This man, however, is (I would guess) at least ten to thirteen years older than me (I'm only guessing since it's pretty hard to tell) and he's no where near 6 ft. tall.

I'm not sure, but I do think that he is aware that I am attracted to him. Anyway, I've never approached a guy before and I don't know how to go about doing this. Everytime I seem to get the nerve to do it, I freak when I see him and I freeze. It's strange to think that someone you don't even know can have such an effect on you. I would just love to be able to go up to him and start a conversation. The problem is my fear of rejection. I don't know how I would react if the crucial moment were to arrive when I felt confident enough to speak to him and he would just ignore me. He may think that I'm too young for him or he may not even be attracted to me in the least. I don't know what to do at this point. All I know is that I've been lusting after this guy since the beginning of the semester. I'm lost. What do you suggest?

Signed
Potential Fatal Attraction

Dear Potential,

I think there is more to this than you are telling me. Is there a reason you are attracted to this particular older man? Maybe he's in some position of authority over you, and that is what makes him more appealing. First, I feel that you should re-evaluate this situation. There must be some reason that you feel you would be rejected by this man. Although, you say you've never approached a man before, you must know from past experiences whether men are attracted to you or not. If you still feel this way about this man after you've considered all the pros and cons of a relationship with him, then your next step is to start a conversation with him. Try to find out what his personal interests are and discuss these with him. Ask him out for dinner or drinks where you can discuss your feelings privately.

Rejection is always a potential factor in any new relationship. The only way you can resolve these feelings for this guy is to get everything out in the open. If you keep these feelings to yourself, then you'll always wonder about what might have been. For all you know this may just be a passing fancy, and not even the guy for you. Once you let your feelings be known, you will see if this relationship will be gone, and your infatuation for this guy will probably be gone with it.

Lambda Chi Is Rolling

by Lee Roy Pittard III

On October 8th, Lambda Chi held a special meeting to fill offices vacated by graduates of last year. Thanks to successful rushing, they were able to fill all of the offices. The new officers until the annual December elections are as follows: President - Chris Laning, Vice President - Dan Stroup, Secretary - Barry Brookshire, Rush Chairman - John Nemeth, Social Chairman - Rick Foutz, Fraternity Education - Steve Mitchell, Alumni Correspondent & News Reporter - Lee Pittard, Scholastic Chairperson - Eric Sayer, Treasurer - Rob Pilewski, and Ritualist - Jeff Rivers.

As mentioned in the last article, nine associates were made Brothers on October 6. Another ritual will be held this semester to initiate more Brothers. Any MEN interested should contact one of the above officers or John Walsh to find out how to associate.

Expect to see a lot of Lambda Chi Alpha during Homecoming Week. In keeping with the "Roaring Twenties" theme, Lambda Chi will be sponsoring THE MAFIA HIT. For just fifty cents, YOU can take out a contract on your friends or enemies, or for one dollar, YOU can buy protection to keep from being hit. Ammunition will be water guns and water balloons. Look for posters or talk to brothers to find the rules and contacts. On Saturday morning, they will sponsor a "Bash A Brother" booth in which for one dollar, you can take three water balloons and douse a member of the Fraternity. Lambda Chi is also proud to support our candidates for the Homecoming Court: Shelli R. Nobles, a freshman from Chadbourn, North Carolina, and Mike "Tito" Mandile, a freshman from Montvale, New Jersey.

The Fraternity is also proud to welcome the Reverend James Malloy to our campus for Homecoming Week. Reverend Malloy is being brought by Methodist College to visit the campus as a Minister-In-Residence. Lambda Chi is proud to claim Reverend Malloy as a past president of the Fraternity, as well as an alumnus.

Don't forget the Blood Drive on November 8th and the "Pint of Spirit Challenge". The name of the organization with the most representatives to give blood, will have their name placed on a banner in the Student Union. Congratulations to our last winners, Koinonia.

The Essence Of Change

by Ernest P. Pitts

It has been my experiences as a student and a journalist that leads me to conclude that all significant news arises from some desire for expression. For the past few years, the writers of Small Talk have made expressing your opinions their primary objective. Change is not usually generated spontaneously. It must be evoked by some external influence. We would like to believe that we helped you influence the changes that have occurred at Methodist.

Whenever there has been a desire for change, whether it be the demand for a football team or a need for improved quality in academic or financial operations, we have made it known. Almost all the demands and complaints that have been voiced have been heard through Small Talk. These are not statements written to elicit a false sense of pride. This is a declaration of importance to show the students, faculty, and administrators of this institution that we are not expendable. We are a part of what makes up the essence of social change and no matter how insignificant our contributions may seem, the occurrence of change without us would be seldom if any. A person without a voice cannot be heard. We are the voice of the Methodist College community; speak through us.

Lab Stays Busy

by Robert L. Chamberlain III

Imagine that it is eight-thirty on a Thursday night and you have a paper due Friday morning. You gather your notes, collect your ideas, and rush to the Computer-Assisted Composition (C.A.C.) Lab in the Trustee's Building. You notice that all of the computers are full and there is a line outside the door of the lab. You notice several other members of your class waiting in line. You will pay a price for procrastination.

The computer lab is open throughout the week, including weekends. Monday through Thursday, the lab is open from eight in the morning until ten o'clock in the evening. On Friday, the lab closes about an hour earlier. The hours on Saturday are somewhat limited, only eleven to three. On Sunday the lab is open from one in the afternoon until ten that night. Your best bet is to check the time schedule posted on the door of the lab. Sometimes there may be a class in the lab, but when asked, most teachers allow other students access if there are extra computers available.

Lab assistants are usually working in the lab. They are there to help you make the most of your time.

Remember not to wait until the last minute. There is always the chance the lab will be full when you need to use it most.

CORRECTION

In the last Small Talk extension 297 was listed as the only way to reach Campus Security. There is an additional extension which may be used. This is ext. 229.

Open Letter

A Helping Hand

Dear Methodist College Community, I would like to introduce myself to you as the new Employee Assistance Counselor for Methodist College. Last year Methodist College established a Student, Faculty, and Staff Assistance Program designed to help employees and students who have personal problems. Problems may include alcoholism, drug abuse, marital and/or family related difficulties, emotional distress, legal and financial problems, or other behavior disorders which result in affecting job or classroom experiences. Several students and employees have already benefited from the use of the program. I will be willing to assist you in anyway I can. I have ten years clinical experience in working with all kinds of personal problems. I am a N.C. Certified Marital and Family Therapist and a Clinical Member of the American Association of Marital and Family Therapy. You can be assured the services are completely confidential. Also, any dependent can utilize the service and can also be assured of strict anonymity. You may contact me at Cumberland County Mental Health, 323-2314, or Kathy Woltz, Director of Counseling and Career Placement, ext. 298, for more information.

Sincerely,
Teri B. Ancellotti

The Methodist College men's soccer team has worked hard to turn around a rough start. (Photo by B. Billings)

MEN'S SOCCER

Team Has Winning Streak

by John Hawkins

After a rough start for the men's soccer team, including losses to UNC-G, a top Division II school, and Emory, another nationally ranked team, the Monarchs have turned things around. They have won ten of their last eleven games including 3 of 4 conference games and a big win against conference and nationally ranked NC Wesleyan.

Methodist won it's first tournament, the N. C. Wesleyan/Bob Melton's BBQ Soccer Classic, on October 14th-15th. The Monarchs defeated Alfred, which has been ranked as high as fourth in the nation, 1-0 when Justin Carey scored in overtime. Methodist also easily defeated Div. I, ECU 5-1, to take the tournament title. This was Coach Dawson's first regular season tournament title at Methodist. Justin Carey who scored another goal and two assists in the ECU game, won the tournament MVP award. Carey played impressively for his first game this season and proved that he had recovered fully from a broken arm he suffered last summer. Carey made the All Tournament Team along with teammates Jimmy Maher, Michael Manchester, Gene Lindley and Fernando Martinez.

The young Monarch team has had no shortage of scoring this season. They have scored 56 goals while allowing only 18. The Methodist scoring effort is lead by sophomores: Gene Lindley-13 goals, 6 assists, Fernando Martinez-12 goals, 6 assists; Finbarr Clancy-7 goals, 11 assists; Patrick Gibney-5 goals, 5 assists, and freshman Charles Massey-11 goals and 3 assists. The Monarchs are led defensively by sophomore David Holmes, last year's MVP, and goal-keeper Lance Watkins who has had 5 shutouts this year.

This year Methodist hopes for its first conference championship under Coach Alan Dawson and Assistant Coach Steve Harrison. A Conference Tournament title would also ensure Methodist of an N.C.A.A. bid. Big wins in the next few weeks could give Methodist College the national recognition it deserves. The team will be participating in the DIAC Conference Tournament on Saturday, October 28th and Sunday, October 29th. Go to the games and support these outstanding athletes.

Freshman Terrorizes Opponents

Methodist women's soccer team has a new freshman who is terrorizing the opponents with her ability to score numerous goals in a game. This aspiring player is Leigh Murray, 18, of Kernersville, North Carolina.

Though she is new to the team, her "go for it" attitude has already made her into one of the premier scoring leaders in Methodist's history.

As soon as Murray arrived at Methodist, she knew that there was a job to be done. That job was to help the team to win the National Championship in Division III. She has already made this dream a possibility by scoring 20 goals in the first fifteen games. She has given Anne Thorpe, two-time All-American, the support up front that was sorely needed after the team lost forward, Lisa Milligan, to graduation.

Murray's two main assets are her strong shot and foot skills. She may only be 5'6" tall, but she makes up for it in physical strength.

The fact that she is an experienced player is evident on the field. Murray and her teammates are aware that post-season tournaments will begin soon. They faced their toughest competition last weekend when they traveled to Virginia and Pennsylvania. The three teams that they faced were all fighting for a top position in the southern region where Methodist is ranked number one and has been labeled as "the team to beat". All three of the opposing teams tested the Methodist Women for both mental and physical toughness.

The Lady Monarchs will play Queens College at 4:00 p.m. on their own field Saturday, October 28th. Murray, as well as the rest of the team, invites everyone to come watch them "go for it!"

Members of the women's soccer team prove to be tough both on and off the field. (Photo by Peggy Denny)

Haile Holds #1 Rank

Eric Haile, who is from Chalfont, P.A., holds his number 1 rankings on the Professional Golf Management Team as of October 16th. Haile shot an overall 149. He shot 75 on October 11th and a 74 on October the 12th. Craig Amarel kept pace with an average of 150, shooting a 72 one day and a 78 the next.

Rounding out the top five are Jim St. Pierre, Bobby Kinsey, and Rich Mancuso.

The club was off for fall break but resumed playing on October 25th. At the end of the fall semester the top players on the club team will qualify in February for spots on the varsity squad.

Here are the following current rankings for the team:

RANK	PLAYER	TOTAL	#OF ROUNDS	AVERAGE
1.	Eric Haile	368	10	36.8
2	Craig Amarel	373	10	37.3
3	Jim St. Pierre	374	10	37.4

'Midnight Madness' Kicks Off Basketball Practices

At 12:01 a.m. on October 15, 1989 the men's and women's basketball teams hosted "Monarch Midnight Madness" in the gym. This was the first day that the teams could officially practice according to the NCAA rules. These eager athletes did not want to waste a minute.

Scrimmage games were played by both teams and various contests among the fans were held. T-shirts with the saying "Don't Worry Be Hoopy" were sold in recognition of the event.

The idea to kick off practices with the "Monarch Midnight Madness" program was the brainstorm of women's basketball coach, Rita Wiggs. Wiggs wanted to do something to get the teams as well as the other students involved. Many big schools do similar programs. Wiggs, stated, "I hope that this becomes an annual event."

Wiggs did a great job in organizing the program. It was well attended by both students and faculty. Hopefully the turnout will be representative of the support the team will get during regular season play.

Anyone who missed this event missed a good time. Don't despair, however, because there is always next year.

Team Prepares For Maryville

The Methodist College football team will take on Maryville College on Saturday, October 28th at 1:00 p.m. This game is one of the many highlights during Homecoming Week.

This will mark the first time that most Methodist alums will have had the opportunity to see the rookie team in action. Presently 0-7, the Monarchs are looking forward to Saturday's game.

The season has taken its toll on many players, but with changes in certain positions the team is optimistic about their final games. The players like a challenge and are aware that Saturday's game will be just that, the fact that it's Homecoming pumps them up even more.

Cross Country On The Move

The Methodist cross country team lead by first year coach, Craig Penny, will participate in the Mason Dixon Conference meet on Saturday, October 28. The team is doing well this year and expects to continue this trend.

The Monarchs have been led this season by John Storms, who garnered a first place finish in the recent outing at the Methodist College Invitational. Penny is pleased with Storms' success this season. He feels that Storms, as well as the rest of the cross country team, will do well on Saturday.

Sweet Win For Volleyball Team

Methodist's volleyball team won two and lost two at the Gallaudet Tournament held recently. The victories came against Gallaudet and Christopher Newport and the losses were to Washington and Guilford. The CNC victory was especially sweet since the Monarchs had lost twice to the Lady Captains this season. Freshman Staci Sanders had 261 for the week and had a powerful 438 against CNC. Coach Diane Scherzer was pleased with the setting of Anita Cechowski and the team's aggressiveness and communication on the court.

Methodist hosted Greensboro College on Wednesday, October 18, and then headed to the Western Maryland Tournament on October 20-21. They will be playing at Meredith on Wednesday, November 1. This is the final game before the DIAC Tournament on Friday and Saturday, November 3-4.

The "Waiting" Is Over

by Daniel Covell

After a successful showing of The Patriots, the Methodist College Green and Gold Mascot Keys turned to "Theatre of the Absurd" with the November presentation of Samuel Beckett's Waiting For Godot.

The play chronicled the events in the lives of two hobos, Estragon and Vladimir, as they waited for the arrival of Godot. While waiting, they encountered two passers-by, Pozzo and Lucky, and conversed with them as the night dragged on. The cast was as follows:

Straton.....Andy Miller
Vladimir.....Daniel Covell
Pozzo.....Phillip Horne
Lucky.....Pamela Johnson
Boy.....Daniel Greene-Colonense

Andy Miller is a graduate of High Point College, where some of his more notable roles were Billy Crocker in Anything Goes, Bull Hutchinsou in The Lottery, and Christopher Wren in Mousetrap. More recently, he played Fenno in the Methodist production of The Patriots.

Daniel Covell is a junior at Methodist. Last year he won the Outstanding Male Performer award. Among his better roles are Alan Strang in 1988's Equus, and Alexander Hamilton in The Patriots.

Phillip Horne graduated from Anson Senior High School in Wadesboro, N.C. While there, Phillip played Bob Ewell in the production of To Kill A Mockingbird and Sir Lancelot in Camelot. He played James Madison in The Patriots.

Pamela Johnson is a graduate of the Frederick County School for the Performing Arts in Theatre in Maryland, where she participated in such shows as Anything Goes, *M*A*S*H*, and Gyps and Dolls. While at Methodist, Pamela has been in Living Theatre and The Patriots.

Daniel Greene-Colonense is the oldest son of communications instructor Michael Colonense. He made his acting debut in Godot.

Robert W. Bloodworth, a new faculty member teaching communications, made his Methodist directorial debut with Godot. Mr. Bloodworth's theatre experience covers a wide spectrum of media, including television and the silver screen. Methodist students may remember him as Sir Wilfrid Roberts in the Spring 1989 production of Witness for the Prosecution.

Waiting For Godot ran November 10 and 11, at 8:00 p.m., and November 12, at 2:00 p.m., in Reeves Auditorium. Admission was free for Methodist students and faculty.

Porter Selected

Two local educators—Mrs. Elaine Porter of Methodist College and Mrs. Georgia Grant of the Cumberland County Schools—are participating in a federally-funded project to improve the training of elementary school foreign language teachers.

Mrs. Porter is associate professor of French at Methodist College and Mrs. Grant is a certified K-12 French specialist who teaches at J.W. Coon, Sherwood Park, and Rockfish elementary schools in Cumberland County. Over the next 30 months, Mrs. Porter and Mrs. Grant will work with 11 other teams of college/public school teachers in North Carolina to develop an effective methods course curriculum for training future elementary school foreign language teachers.

The teacher training project is being conducted by the Center for Applied Linguistics and the N.C. Dept. of Public Instruction from Nov. 1, 1989-May, 1992. The project was funded by a grant from the U.S. Department of Education's Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education.

Phase I of the project took place Nov. 4-7, when the 24 participants attended a four-day seminar in Winston-Salem on teacher training methods. Leading foreign language educators will discuss language acquisition and child development.

In subsequent phases of the project, Mrs. Porter and other teacher educators will observe elementary foreign language teachers in their classrooms, co-teach with elementary language teachers, and collaborate with experienced teachers in the development of a "model" curriculum for training elementary school foreign language teachers.

Current plans call for the project to be repeated after 1992 with a second group of North Carolina teacher training institutions. The teacher education curriculum and training model developed over the next 30 months will be made available to all interested school districts by the Center for Applied Linguistics and the N.C. Department of Public Instruction.

Symphony To Perform

A musical salute to the holidays will take place in Fayetteville when the North Carolina Symphony performs a pop chart on Tuesday, December 5. The 7:00 p.m. concert will be in Reeves Auditorium at Methodist College.

The full North Carolina Symphony will perform under the direction of Assistant Conductor,

by Caroline Bechard

An old "bag lady" pushing her possessions around in a shopping cart; a middle aged drunkard slouching in an alley, covering himself with old newspapers; a young child forced into crime to support his poverty stricken family. These scenes are part of everyday life, yet society often chooses to ignore the situation. These people are among the many that once had a productive life until unfortunate circumstances shattered their dreams and hopes for a future.

Severe budget cuts during the Reagan Administration, coupled with an astounding level of corruption within the Department of Housing and Urban Development, resulted in funds intended for housing projects for the homeless to be misapplied. Due to government misappropriations, the current plight of the homeless has set back millions of needy people. The former administration was out of touch with human needs. It will take decades to unravel the damages until the time when there will be fewer homeless and more children with food on their plates.

Initiated through the Methodist College Chaplain's Office, Director of Counseling and Careers Placement, Kathy Woltz, along with several concerned students attended the homeless demonstration at the mall in front of the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. on Oct. 7, 1989. Experiencing this event has left the group with an incentive to understand the predicament of our nation's homeless, and to take the initiative to help them.

An estimated 400,000 demonstrators from as far away as California, and from major groups and organizations gathered in unity: to hold hands at the opening ceremony; to march around the Capitol streets; and to listen to a host of guest speakers, whom included Jesse Jackson, Loretta Scott King, Linda Evans, Michael Jackson and other known celebrities, the governor of Ohio and a group of homeless individuals who walked from New York. "Once you have been a part of this sort of thing, you'll come out with a different feeling towards your fellow beings," stated Ms. Woltz. "We are our brothers and sisters keepers; God gave us everything and we are destroying it bit by bit." An overwhelming emotional support voiced from the crowd was directed towards legislation to change the priorities of this country to take care of those in America's own backyard.

One individual at the rally who lost his job and home, felt the answer was not to have more shelters and handouts, but instead, to provide a home and a chance to become independent. The most afflicted among the homeless are children. The lack of a steady home and an education makes their future look grim; to survive they turn to crime. Their parents, if they are fortunate enough to have any, may be handicapped, unemployed, and have no medical insurance, nor qualifications to receive welfare.

Being homeless and stricken with poverty is an issue that does not afflict an individual until an unfortunate incident or event has caused the individual to lose everything, including their health. Being the giver and not expecting to receive more than a smile has its rewards. If you would like to volunteer your time to help the needy this winter, come and participate in chopping firewood on Dec. 2, 1989. The wood will be given to the Urban Ministry for distribution. More information on this event can be obtained through the Student Affairs Office.

Outlook Symposium Held

James B. Hyler, Jr., president of First Citizens BancShares, Inc. and First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., delivered the keynote address at the 16th Annual Economic Outlook Symposium on Wednesday, November 15 at Methodist College.

Is America's longest peacetime economic expansion coming to a close? "Mr. Hyler was in a good position to answer this question and told us what to expect in 1990," noted Dr. Sid Gautam, economics professor at Methodist.

James Hyler is a graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, where he received a degree in accounting. He is a member of the Financial Executives Institute, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and the North Carolina Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Hyler's address was one of two that were given during the banquet and symposium held in the Methodist College Cafeteria. Timothy Newton, president of the Fayetteville Area Chamber of Commerce, discussed "The Outlook for Cumberland County in 1990."

Methodist College recognized outstanding business achievements in 1989 by presenting awards to: the Entrepreneur of the Year, an outstanding business student (Wall Street Journal Award), the Economics and Business Alumnus of the Year, and the Business Person of the Year.

The symposium was sponsored jointly by the Fayetteville Area

Chamber of Commerce, the N.C. Small Business and Technology Development Center, and the Center for Entrepreneurship at Methodist College.

Information about future symposiums can be obtained through Dr. Sid Gautam, Director, Center for Entrepreneurship; Methodist College, 5400 Ramsey Street, Fayetteville, NC 28311.

Moses Holds Free Concert

Dr. Oral Moses, assistant professor of music at Kennesaw State College in Marietta, GA, gave a free concert Tuesday, Nov. 14 at Methodist College.

The bass-baritone performed "Songs of Afro-American Composers" at 8 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium. He was accompanied by Jane Weeks Gardiner, pianist.

A South Carolina native, Dr. Moses received a Bachelor of Music degree from Fiske University. He holds the Master of Music and Director of Musical Arts degrees from the University of Michigan. He has researched and written about black American composers of the 19th century.

He has studied in Austria and West Germany and performed widely throughout western Europe. In 1983, Dr. Moses toured five countries in western Europe, singing the role of "Porgy" in the concert version of Porgy and Bess.

Dr. Moses taught a voice master class for music students at Methodist Nov. 13. His appearances in Fayetteville were supported by the Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County with a grant from the Grassroots Arts Program of the N.C. Arts Council.

MC Presents

"The Zoo Story"

The Theatre and Speech Department at Methodist College presents Edward Albee's play "The Zoo Story" November 28 at 8 p.m. in Reeves Auditorium. Admission is $1.00 per person.

An example of "Theatre of the Absurd," "The Zoo Story" depicts one man's desperate attempt to communicate with another human being. Holden Hansen, Bladen Community College visiting artist, and Tom Gonda will play the feature roles.

A discussion entitled "Existentialism and Theatre of the Absurd" led by members of the Philosophy and Religion Department will be held immediately after the play.

For more information, contact Dr. Jack Peyrouse at 488-7110, Ext. 212.

A Time To Give Thanks

by Betty Darden

The holiday season is fast approaching, and with it comes a time of joy for some and sorrow for others. Thanksgiving is the one day of the year which is set aside specifically for the purpose of giving thanks. What many of us fail to realize, however, is that there are thousands of people all over the country who don't even have a place to sleep let alone know where there next meal is coming from.

There are homeless people in every city but many just turn a blind eye to the poverty and the sadness because they feel that it doesn't involve them. What we all must remember is that those people sleeping in cardboard boxes are, in many ways like us.

Thanksgiving should not be the only day out of the year that you give thanks for your good fortune. You should give thanks every day of your life for everything that you have. You should also remember those people that are homeless and poverty stricken in your prayers and your hearts.

The holiday season is a perfect time to help people that are less fortunate than you are. There are hundreds of charities who sponsor families and shelters that need your help. They collect food and clothing for the needy and distribute these items at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

This year Methodist College is doing their part by chopping wood for those people who need it to heat their homes during the winter months. The college is donating a section of trees to be cut down professionally and then the students are asked to come and help chop it up into usable firewood. This act of charity, which began with Student Affairs, has since spread all over campus and has been taken up by the organizations here. It will take place after we return from Thanksgiving break on December the 2nd. Anyone interested in participating should meet in the Student Union at 10:00 a.m. ready to work.

So, while you are enjoying your turkey and dressing with all the fixings this year, I hope that you will take a couple of minutes of your time to think about those people out there that don't even realize it's a holiday. I also hope you take some time out when you get back to help us chop some wood. A little kindness goes a long way in this day and age and the sooner we realize this the better off everyone will be.

Have a happy Thanksgiving, and I'll see you on the 2nd.

Computer Illiteracy

by Chris Bechard

A recent Rand Corporation study estimates that by the year 2000, computers will be a part of everyday life. Those who cannot use them will be considered "illiterate."

In the last ten years, computers have evolved from expensive and complex business machines into powerful, compact and indispensable tools, which millions of people rely on each day. This reliance stems in part from a technology explosion, which seems to be multiplying too fast to keep up with.

Computers help to cope with the complexities of head-spinning lives. For those who have the knowledge to utilize them, computers can manage businesses, educate, entertain and help in communicating with other computers and other people around the world. But for those who shudder when the word "computer" is mentioned and think that a "disk drive" is a part of an automobile, computers have become a bothersome and unavoidable part of their lives, like death and taxes.

For the unknowledgeable group, procrastination can no longer be considered a viable alternative. It is vital that everyone learns the basics of computer usage, and quickly.

This Spring, Reuter's News Service conducted a poll which showed that 76 percent of US businesses utilize computers in one form or another in the workplace. It is a logical assumption that those people who are computer literate will be hired first. Those who aren't will have to undergo extensive and costly training.

What can be done to prevent the "computer illiterate" from washing computer illiterate people away? The answers are many, starting at Methodist College, which offers several computer courses each semester geared toward the electronic neophyte. The school also maintains a Computer Assisted Composition Lab, or CAC, where students utilize the latest word processing and educational programs as part of their course requirements.

More information on computers and computer courses can be found by calling the Cumberland County Public Library ACCESS Information Line at 483-7727 or by contacting the Computer Science Department at Methodist College.

Tax Volunteers Needed

Military and civilian volunteers are needed for Fort Bragg's Consolidated Tax Center. A business, accounting, or tax background is preferred but not required. Special tax training will be provided in January by the Internal Revenue Service. The Center services active duty soldiers, retirees and family members and operates from 1 February through 16 April 1990. Services include completion of federal, state and computerized tax returns. It's a chance to get some tax and business experience, and looks great on a resume. Interested persons should contact CPT Finn at 396-2511/6113 for further information.

Movies In Review

The following are short descriptions or reviews of movies that are playing in the Fayetteville area. Please refer to your local newspaper listings for the time and location of the movie. This newspaper uses a "star" system.

**** Excellent
*** Good ** Fair
* Not worth wasting your money on.

PHANTOM OF THE OPERA — This horror remake is full of special effects and gory details. It has some differences from the theater version, but that is only to be expected when considering the limitless possibilities that are added when doing something on the screen rather than the stage. It is set in the future some of the time, and is great if you like to watch the kind of movies that will send chills up your spine. The man who played Freddy on all the "Nightmare On Elm Street" movies is back; this time as the Phantom. I wouldn't go so far as to say it is a "must see," but if you like these kind of movies then it could be. I'll give this movie three stars.

SECOND SIGHT — I was really excited about this movie because it has two of my favorite actors from nighttime television, John Larroquette from "Night Court" and Bronson Pinchot from "Perfect Strangers." This movie left me feeling flat. The only good I found in it was the happy ending, but even that was a little too cutesy for me. Pinchot plays a psychic who helps Larroquette solve crimes for a detective agency. I sensed a lack of chemistry between these two actors after five or ten minutes into the movie. The plot was confusing and predictable. After the movie was over the only thing I felt was relief that I made it through the whole movie without dozing off. I gave this movie one star.

LOOK WHO'S TALKING — This was a fantastic movie! I loved the originality of the plot and characters. The idea of a baby narrating a movie was fresh and funny. Kirstie Alley and John Travolta work very well together, but the baby with the voice of Bruce Willis literally stole the show. I was doubled over with laughter from the minute the movie started and was still chuckling several hours later. This is one of the feel-good movies of the year and I think it should be on everyone's "must see" list. This is the kind of movie you will want to see again and again. If you want to get away from it all and just have a good laugh, then this is the movie for you. I gave this movie four stars.

Self-reliance doesn't lie in blaming others for your own scores nor in isolating yourself. We'd better learn from a tree how to be in touch with winds and how to grow without bending to a seasonal wind. Then as we might open Korean Cultural Centers in any city of the U.S., why can't the Americans open theirs here?

The vacant building of the American Cultural Center in the heart of Kwangju City, drearier than ever, utters monosyllables in metallic voice, hardly understandable, closing its iron-barricaded gate and two padlocks as a visitor goes out.

Homecoming '89' In Review

Raccoon coats and flapper dresses were back in style as Methodist College celebrated "The Roaring Twenties" during Homecoming Weekend, Oct. 27-29.

This homecoming was unique in several respects. For the first time ever, campus organizations selected both male and female representatives to the Homecoming Court. A king and queen were crowned during halftime of the Methodist vs. Maryville football game Saturday, Oct. 28. Chris Hardy and Danielle Baker took these honors. Members of their court included: Dairin Priestner, Kelly Canney, Matt Melvin, Dorian Droegge, Mitch Adams, and Amy Royal.

A variety of sporting events were scheduled for Saturday—a men's soccer game, the football game, and a women's soccer game. Methodist hosted the Dixie Conference Men's Soccer Championships Saturday and Sunday.

The Student Government Association and the Methodist College Alumni Association planned a wide range of activities for current students and alumni. Preliminaries began Wednesday, Oct. 25th with Charleston lessons, introduction of the homecoming contestants, and Casino Night followed by a Charleston contest. On Thursday evening, Jeff Dunham and Pennin (a ventriloquist act) appeared in the Student Union.

The Student Activities Council sponsored a treasure hunt for a replica of Al Capone's vault that had been hidden on campus. Clues and a map were handed out from various locations beginning Wednesday. The first team to find the vault won prizes worth $50-$75.

On Friday morning, the student body and cheerleaders gathered for a pep rally in the Student Union. Members of the fall teams competing during Homecoming Weekend—football, men's soccer, women's soccer—were introduced.

Saturday morning activities included: a carnival on the campus mall, a tour of the new Physical Activities Center, and a men's soccer game featuring Methodist vs. Christopher Newport.

Afternoon activities included: a pre-game parade of homecoming contestants led by the Cary High School Marching Band, the Methodist vs. Maryville (TN)

College football game (with halftime entertainment by the Cary Band), and a women's soccer game against Queens College.

Evening activities included: a reception for alumni in the Mallett-Rogers House, an alumni dinner, and a homecoming dance at the Holiday Inn.

Homecoming festivities concluded with two events Sunday—a worship service in Hensdale Chapel led by the Rev. Jack Hunter 64 and a library lecture by Paul Wilson entitled "The legacy of a day after." The whole week proved to be a success. Plans for next year are already in progress.

Cadets Compete

by Diane Quinn

Members of Methodist College's ROTC unit traveled with members of the Campbell University Battalion to Ft. Jackson, S.C. this past weekend to compete in a Brigade level competition as part of The Ranger Challenge Team. Ranger Challenge, Cadet Command's "Varsity Sport", helps weld each cadet battalion to its college or university.

Ranger Challenge is a grueling, nonstop, thirty-hour competition designed to provide the ultimate physical and mental challenge to the cadets. They are tough, militarily competent, and well qualified to be the future leaders of the Army. The competition is made up of six events: The Physical Fitness Test, Marksmanship with the M16 rifle, The Grenade Throw, Weapons Assembly with the M16 rifle and the M60 Machine gun, Orienteering, Erecting a Rope Bridge and crossing a stream for time, and the climax, a 10K/6.2 mile run with Rucksacks.

Methodist College cadets placed first in the following areas: The 10K Rucksack Run, The Rope Bridge Assembly, and Weapons Assembly. They also placed second in the Army Physical Fitness Test, scoring an average of 292 out of a possible 300 points. Campbell Battalion cadets acquired more first place finishes in events than any of the other 23 schools present at the competition, but due to a disqualification in the orienteering event, finished third overall. First place went to N.C. State and second place to the Citadel. Hearty congratulations are due to Cadet Kyle Adrian and Cadet Patrick Beatty, both trained long and hard for this competition.

Magician, Bob Garner, will appear in the Lion's Den on November 30th at 8:00 p.m. Garner will entertain the audience in his 45-minute stage show with mystery, humor, and audience participation.

Over the years, Garner has developed an untouchable reputation for quality entertainment at colleges and universities across the country. His non-stop performance has the showmanship and professionalism needed by a top-name entertainer.

The fast-paced show opens with unbelievable magic. Objects will disappear and reappear, solids will pass through solids, and best of all, the audience will help make the magic happen. Garner will even saw a volunteer from the audience in half with an electric saw. Now that's audience participation!

The show also contains demonstrations of ESP and mind-boggling mentalism. Randomly selected thoughts, names, and numbers from the private lives of the audience members will be revealed on stage by Garner.

Besides outstanding magic, Garner enjoys including good clean comedy in every show. His humor and quick wit will capture the audience and leave them wondering whether they have just seen a magician performing comedy or a comedian performing magic, either way, the audience gets magic and comedy—a dynamic combination!

The Magic and Comedy of Garner—the one show—important not to miss! Be there—in the Lion's Den!

Women's Soccer Team Goes To Nationals

by Robert L. Chamberlain III
Spirit, pride, determination — these are all words that sum up the women's soccer team at Methodist College. With the incentive of being in the Final Four at NCAA Division III Nationals, the Lady Monarchs won Regionals November 5th. This allowed them to go to San Diego, California for the Nationals making a part of their dream come true. A first round loss ended the second part of that dream.

In the first game of the Regional Saturday, Nov. 4th the women's team beat Scranton 3 to 0. The first goal, made by the red-headed Colette Griligan of Dublin, Ireland, was kicked into the opponent's goal within the first two minutes of the game. The 1-0 lead was held through the first half. Then with over ten minutes left in the second and last half, Dudley Hawkins received an excellent assist from Robyn Leff. Hawkins knocked the ball past the keeper to give the Monarchs a 2-0 lead. The final goal, blasted from a distance with twelve seconds left in the game, was made by Tricia Criswell.

This win put Methodist women's soccer into the regional final on Sunday, Nov. 5th, against a tough Mary Washington College team. Mary Washington had beaten Saint Lawrence University earlier on Saturday, Nov. 4th. That game had gone scoreless through regulation halves and two fifteen minute overtimes, tied through penalty kicks, and was decided 6-5 in a sudden death penalty kick contest.

In Sunday's final, the team came out strong. Though an attempt to score failed in the first half, the Methodist team was wearing Mary Washington down. Three minutes into the second half, Kelly Ramsey scored the first goal of the game. The team's leading scorer, Anne Cover, had been double teamed and covered extensively through the whole regional tournament. It was only after being awarded a penalty kick that she got her big chance to score, and she did just that. Then, Traci Wilson added a final goal to put the game away, 3-0. Led by a strong defense and a powerful offense the team outscored their two opponents in Regional by a total of 6 to 0.

The support of the fans was spectacular. The men's soccer team added to the excitement. The chants and moral support given to the team showed what team and school spirit is all about.

The spirit followed the team to San Diego during the Nationals held November 11th and 12th. The cheerleaders led a pep rally on Wednesday, November 8th dedicated to the women's soccer team. The students and faculty members kept them in mind during the games. Everyone stayed close to TV's, newspapers, and Rita Wiggs, the Sports Information Director at Methodist, for the latest updates.

The girls once again played tough against unbeaten Ithaca, NY, but not quite tough enough. The Monarch women lost 2-0 in the first round of Nationals. Coach Joe Pereira stated, "Ithaca played outstanding defense. We kept pushing for the equalizer. We outshot them 15-6, but this is a funny game. Things just happen. I'm pleased with our effort."

Methodist College is pleased with their effort too. This is the second straight season that Methodist has lost in the national semifinals, but rather than seeing this as a negative statement, the school sees it as a positive. Only winners make it to Nationals. This kind of winner can be found on the women's soccer team.

The Monarch women's soccer team is made up of winners — dedicated to their sport and their college. This was proven in their performance at Nationals.

Volleyball Team Completes Season

The Methodist volleyball team completed a rather frustrating season on a more positive note as it won a first round DIAC Tournament game against Ferrum on Friday, Nov. 24 (15-10, 15-8, 15-12). This gave top seeded Greensboro a go for the trophy in the semifinal game before falling by 14-16, 4-15, 16-14 and 11-15. With wins against Lynchburg and Meredith earlier in the week, the Monarchs finished the season by winning 3 of their last four games.

Third year coach Diane Scherzer was pleased with her team's tournament performance. She summarized in the following: "We put ourselves in a position to win in the Greensboro game when we were up 14-10 in the first game. But trouble with serving and receiving cost us our lead and that game. The third game was also a pivotal one in which the lead changed hands several times before we finally lost it by two. All in all, we played well and aggressively in the tournament. Staci Sanders had an outstanding tournament. With such a young team, we look forward to the 1990 season."

Being selected to the second team All-Conference squad for Methodist were setter Anita Czechowski and Sanders. Sanders is a freshman. Methodist finishes the season with a 12-20 overall record.

Coach: Diane Scherzer (3rd year). Record: 12-20.

Last week: Defeated Lynchburg, 15-9, 17-15, 18-16 Nov. 9.

Defeated Meredith, 1-15, 15-13, 15-13, Nov. 1.

Defeated Ferrum, 15-10, 15-8 15-12, Nov. 3, DIAC Tournament.

Lost to Greensboro, 14-16, 4-15, 16-14, 11-15, Nov. 4, DIAC Tournament.

Men's Soccer

Team Takes Second

It was a bittersweet culmination to an exciting season for the Monarch men's soccer group as it lost a hard fought game to Greensboro College in the DIAC Tournament championship game on Sunday, Oct. 29. Methodist had beaten Greensboro 3-1 on a rain-soaked field Oct. 18 to claim the regular season conference title. Then Methodist defeated Christopher Newport, 3-0, to advance to the finals, while Greensboro was disposing of 747 Wesleyan, 4-1. An NCAA tournament bid awaited the tournament champion, as was obvious with the intensity of the play. The first half was a scoreless one, with Greensboro gaining the first tally on a John LaPlante goal at the 28:46 mark in the second half. Monarch Coach Alan Dawson felt his troops had the upper hand in the first half, but lost it with that score. "I thought we had the better of the first half, and it was just a matter of time. However, when they got their first goal we seemed to drop off and did not get the necessary push to get back into the game."

The final 14-5 record provided the most wins ever for a Monarch men's soccer team and their climb to a #13 national ranking and #2 regional ranking was the highest ever. The Monarchs claimed the championship trophy at the NC Wesleyan Fall Classic by defeating Alfred University and East Carolina University. Gene Lindley (15 goals - 9 assists) and Fernando Martinez (14 goals - 9 assists) were the team's leading scorers.

Methodist placed four athletes - Gene Lindley, Lance Watkins, Fumbar Clancey, and David Holmes - on first team DIAC All-Conference and two - Michael Manchester and James Maher - on the second team. Dawson was selected Coach-of-the-Year. Holmes, Lindley, Justin Carey and Fernando Martinez were chosen for the All-Tournament team.

Sports Roundup

Tennis

Both the men's and women's tennis teams at Methodist finished their fall season strong. Through tough matches and strong opponents, the teams pulled out big wins.

The men's team composed of: Phillip Baillos, Jeff Hawes, Jonathan Terry, Tom Maze, Rob Chamberlain, Brian May, Jeff Hayes, Pat Marccucci, Marc Tyndale, John Scrivani, and Rick Payne, combined to finish with a 4-1 record against tough NAIA schools. The tough fall schedule hopefully prepared the team for its spring quest for the DIAC title.

The women's team is looking for its second consecutive conference title and an improved national ranking. With players like Dorian Droege, Laurie Brucker, Lori Gustavson, Sandy Roozeboom, Tracy Maness, Amanda Cook, and Heather Owens, the chances look good that they will get it.

The spring season for both teams looks good. Hopefully the teams will bring two DIAC titles to Methodist in 1990.

Cross Country

Methodist College hosted the NCAA South-Southeast Regional Cross Country Meet on the Monarch campus on Saturday, November 11. Teams were expected from Texas, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and the District of Columbia. Methodist finished third in this meet a year ago. John Storms was second individually in last year's regional and was considered a leading candidate to win this year. Predictions proved true as Storms took 1st place running 25:12 a personal best.

The Monarchs took 4th place out of twelve. Storms leaves Friday for Nationals. Good luck!

Football Fever

by Robert Chamberlain

The Monarch football team finished their season on a tougher note than in previous action. Although they gave up 35 points in the first half of their game against Hampden-Sydney College, they played much better after the half. In the second half the defense held Hampden-

Sydney to only seven points. The offense also played strong, scoring its fourth touchdown of the season. The touchdown was scored on a one yard run by Wayne Bragg in the fourth quarter of the game. Keith Tajaparsky also helped in the rushing category with his second game of the season of over 100 yards.

The Monarchs played just as strongly against their last opponent, Guilford College, on Nov. 11th. They ended their season with a 0-10 record, but feel confident that teams in the conference better look next year!

More Than A Professor

by Celeste VanHaelst

Although students sit in classrooms day after day, concentrating and listening to what their professors have to say, most never even wonder what their professors' past work experiences were, or could care less what these men and women may have done for a living before becoming teachers at Methodist College. But sometimes when students take time to get to know their professors, they find that their professors past jobs and activities were very exciting. In the communications department, a professor Mr. Robert Bloodworth has held previous jobs that sound fascinating to most of his students. He has hands-on experience in the fields of production, writing, directing and acting.

Mr. Bloodworth received a B.A. from the University of N.C. at Chapel Hill in English and holds a M.A. in Mass Communication/Drama, also from Chapel Hill. He has written, produced and directed television commercials for WTVD-TV in Durham and has also been program and operational director at WRDU-TV in Durham. For four years, he was an assistant professor of drama and communication at Coker College, in Hartsville, S.C., and for the past ten years Mr. Bloodworth has also been a professional actor.

He started his acting career in theatre, performing in many plays. He further expanded his acting into television commercials, shows, and soaps. Some of his soap-opera roles have included "Search for Tomorrow", "As the World Turns", "Guiding Light", and "Another World." Some film roles include:

Lady Grey, The Rare Breed, Brainstorm and Summertime Blues. Mr. Bloodworth also has stunt fighting training in swords and fists, and has British, Southern and Western dialects in his acting repertoire.

Mr. Bloodworth moved to Fayetteville for family reasons about a year and a half ago. He began teaching at Methodist as a part time faculty in the theatre department and now heads the communications department. Mr. Bloodworth's most recent accomplishment was directing the play "Waiting for Godot" which was held Nov. 10th, 11th, and 12th. He directs one play a year.

Most communication majors at Methodist College enjoy listening to Mr. Bloodworth talk about his past roles and his various jobs in the area of production. Mr. Bloodworth says, "I like the continuity of theatre and the response of an audience. Film is subtle acting and soaps are fun."

Mr. Bloodworth may be teaching at Methodist College now, but someday in the future we may turn on that afternoon episode of "The Young and the Restless" and see our own Mr. Bloodworth doing something he very much enjoys, acting.

Mr. Bob Bloodworth is an interesting person both in and out of the classroom.

Student Helps Sick Children

by Betty Darden

Chris Walker, a student at Methodist, has been the backbone of a new project that the Fayetteville community has taken up. What began as a thought in Chris's mind has now become a common goal for many residents including the student and faculty at Methodist.

When Chris's mother was hospitalized for cancer he realized how lonely and frustrating it was for patients who are far away from their familiar surroundings. This loneliness and depression, very often presents a severe hindrance to their complete recovery. After his mother died he began trying to think of a way to do something for these people who so desperately needed someone's love and support. In memory of his mother he decided to visit sick and critically ill children and hopefully along with his visits, bring a little bit of cheer into their lives.

What began as a lovely thought has now spread throughout the city. Chris went to the mayor with this idea and Mayor Dawkins liked it so much he set aside an entire week to honor these children.

Although Hospitalized Children's Appreciation Week, which ran from November 26th through December 2nd is now over, there is no reason why we can't continue to visit these children and give them the much needed support and love that they so desperately want. Getting these children through these trying times should not end with this week but should last throughout the entire year.

Several Methodist College groups managed to make it to the hospital to visit these children. These groups included the cheerleaders, the baseball team and the men's and women's soccer teams. If your group could not make it during this time please remember that it is not too late to bring happiness to these children.

The people in this community are the ones that are making the difference for these children, and with our visits, Methodist students can too!

Methodist Honors Four

Four persons were honored at the 16th Annual Economic Outlook Symposium held Nov. 15 at Methodist College.

The late Joe Wiley Stout Jr., a Fayetteville businessman and developer who donated 120 acres of land for Methodist College in 1956, was posthumously awarded the Business Person of the Year Award. His son, Dr. Frank Stout, accepted the award.

A Sanford native who came to Fayetteville during World War II, Joe Stout developed Eutaw Shopping Center, Greenwood Homes, Bordeaux Shopping Center, and the Bordeaux Inn and Convention Center. A modest man, he once refused Methodist College's Silver Spoon Award.

Charles B.C. Holt, president of Holt Off Co. in Fayetteville, was named Entrepreneur of the Year. His firm owns 10 service stations and currently distributes Amoco products to 18 stations.

A former mayor of Fayetteville and member of the N.C. House of Representatives, Holt is an active environmentalist who currently serves as president of the Cape Fear River Research Institute. He has served on the boards of the Fayetteville Area Industrial Development Corp., the Cumberland Foundation, and the YMCA.

Jeff Rivers, a senior business administration major from Havelock, NC, received the Wall Street Journal Award, denoting his selection as the outstanding business student.

Rivers is president of the Business and Economics Club, has played on the tennis team, and is secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha. He is now working at Rose's Department Store in Fayetteville to help finance his education.

David R. Altman '65 was named Economics and Business Alumnus of the Year. In 1976 he started Altman Distributing Company in Ipswich, MA—a warehouse distributor for automotive aftermarket parts. The firm employs 16 persons, and has annual sales exceeding $3 million in its four-state service area.

Altman was a Dean's List student at Methodist, played basketball, and served as president of the Student Government Association his senior year. A former Navy lieutenant who served in Vietnam, he was area manager for Mobil Oil Corp. from 1969-75.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, over 1,500 pediatric patients are admitted to the Fayetteville/Cumberland County hospitals annually; AND

WHEREAS, the psychological effects of an unfamiliar and institutional environment can seriously retard the healing process for these children; AND

WHEREAS, the Fayetteville/Cumberland County community recognizes the need for special attention and care for children when hospitalized; AND

WHEREAS, providing meaningful and caring interactions between critically ill children and this community can promote positive and comforting emotions; AND

WHEREAS, we, the friends of the children, a group composed of individual citizens, local businesses, community groups, area schools and the military community have all joined together as one, for the purpose of sharing joy and bringing hope to our hospitalized children;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, J.L. Dawkins, Mayor of the City of Fayetteville, North Carolina do hereby proclaim November 26 thru December 2, 1989 to be HOSPITALIZED CHILDREN'S APPRECIATION WEEK in Fayetteville and urge all citizens to support this group in their endeavor to make a lasting contribution to the speedy recovery of the hospitalized children of our communities.

Kimball Elected

Dr. Sue Laslie Kimball, professor of English at Methodist College, was elected to the Executive Committee of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association Nov. 11 in Atlanta.

The only woman on the committee and the only representative of a small college, Dr. Kimball will serve a three-year term, on the six member committee.

The Kentucky native has taught English at Methodist since 1979. She is the organizer and director of Methodist's Southern Writers' Symposia, held each spring since 1982. She has also served the college as grants officer and director of the honors program.

Dr. Kimball holds an undergraduate degree in English from the University of Kentucky, a Master of Science in Education from Saint Mary College (Leavenworth, Kansas), and a Ph.D. in English from the University of Alabama.

P.A.C. To Open Soon

by Lee Ammons

According to Gene Clayton, Director of Development, the new athletic building is coming along on schedule. Barring unforeseen complications, the college expects the building will formally open to students on or before January 7th, 1990.

To date the building is 85% complete. The exterior has been finished and preparations for completing the inside of the building have been made. The heating and air-conditioning units are in operation, and the ceilings and floors are being installed. Clayton anticipates the installation of the hardwood court floor within the next few weeks.

Clayton expressed the College's hope that the building will be enjoyed by students, faculty and staff. The building will house the offices of the athletic department, 3 large classroom areas, 3 basketball courts, 2 volleyball courts, 6 dressing rooms, 1 racquetball court, a dance, wrestling and cheerleading room, a weight room, a training area, a concession area, ticket area, a laundry area, 4 public restrooms, and 12 storage areas.

Funds for the building have come mainly from contributions to the schools by corporations, alumni, the board of trustees, and other friends of the college. Should the school meet its total campaign pledge goal by March 1 the school will also receive a $250,000 Kresge Foundation Challenge Grant to help pay construction costs. Should the goal not be met the building will still be completed and alternate financing will be sought, but such a scenario seems unlikely.

As for the existing gym, many groups at the school have requested space, but no definite allocations have been made.

The Physical Activities Center will be completed soon. The name of the new building will be announced on December 17th. (Photo by B. Billings)

Exam Stress Ready To Attack

by Betty Darden

Thanksgiving is now only a fading, happy memory of good food and good times shared with the people we care most about, but we're not through with the holiday festivities yet. We still have Christmas to look forward to and plan for. Before we can head home for these festivities, however, we must face something that all students dread. The horrible EXAMS!

Along with exams come another thing that many of us have trouble handling and controlling and that is stress. It strikes when you least expect it and can cause you and your grades a lot of trouble if it is not properly controlled. I'm sure that we have all realized by now that one method not to use for keeping stress in check is to turn to drugs or alcohol. Although they may seem to be calming you down at the time, you must understand that you are only creating another problem for yourself and making the other problems you have even worse.

If you are feeling all "stressed out" over your grades then you may need to sit down and re-evaluate your priorities. Nothing, not even good grades is worth making yourself sick over.

Statistics show that suicide and drop-out rates increase dramatically during exam times. A lot of students wait until the last minute to do projects and papers for classes that they know about months in advance. They then try to make up all this missed work during the last two weeks of the semester. These students don't realize that by trying to cram all that knowledge into their brain in such a short time that they are only retaining it long enough to scrape by on the exam. A large percentage of what was supposedly learned is lost shortly after the test is over. These students may have passed their final, but they didn't learn a tenth of what they could have if they had only studied on a daily basis.

I don't know why you are here, but I'm here to learn. When you just do enough to get by, you are defeating the sole purpose of the teachers who spend their time and energy trying to make you a more intelligent individual.

Sure, maybe your getting by fine with the cram sessions and the study groups two days before the exam, but why just get by? The only person you're really hurting and short-changing is yourself. If you are as smart as you should be from all the quality time you've spent in college, you already know that. Didn't you?

S.G.A. Update

by Kevin Carlson

The Senate rejected a proposal to grant money to bring cable TV to the Snack Bar. The cost of running a cable line to the Student Union is $1500.00. The Senate found the cost to outweigh the benefit considering most students have cable TV in their rooms. The proposal came about from the SGA's on going battle to reopen the Snack Bar during the evening hours while renovating it to make it more appealing as a campus social spot. The Senate preferred the purchase of a VCR for movie nights and a jukebox. Our efforts thus far do appear to be successful as President Hendricks has indicated that something will be done by the beginning of the spring semester.

The SGA announced plans for a survey in cooperation with the Student Activities Council to be distributed to the student body sometime in the near future. Please take the time to participate in this survey so we can better understand what the students look for in activities and their student government.

The Senate prepared their budget proposal to the budget committee for the year 1990-91. The 1989-90 SGA budget was $20,000 entertainment account, $5,000 grant, and $3,000 operation, which was cut drastically at the beginning of the year to $15,000, $1,000, and $1,000, respectively. The cuts were due to the college overspending the 88-89 budget. The Senate will attempt to regain budget growth to a level comparable to other small colleges. This actually seemed to be occurring before unexpected cuts at the beginning of the semester.

The Senate, due to fall graduation, will have three Senate positions open for the spring semester. The vice-president's seat will also be vacated, but will be filled by a current senator. For those interested in the available Senate seats please submit, on regular notebook paper, your name, class, major, box and phone number, and a short paragraph describing why you would make a good student representative. Hand it into the Student Affairs Office as soon as possible. Students will be notified regarding their status and for a possible interview with the Senate.

New Club Approval: The Methodist College Student Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children had their constitution approved by Senate majority and is now an official campus organization.

A proposal will be drafted by the Senate and presented to the administration that the old gym, upon completion of the PAC, should be turned over to the Intramural Department.

This will help alleviate scheduling problems with men's and women's basketball. This does not suggest that the PAC will not be used for intramurals. In addition, the proposal will include a request that additional lighting be installed outside at the old gym from the doors to the parking lot at the Student Union to avoid possible injuries on the stairs and sidewalk.

In light of recent car break-ins and unruly trespassers a discussion was raised on the possibility of a security gate at the south entrance which would be manned from dusk to dawn. It was suggested that current student stickers, for residents and commuters, be placed in the upper left hand corner of the windshield to provide easy access to the campus. The only problem with the idea at this time is the community events scheduled at Reeves Auditorium and how to handle traffic flow during these events. We feel that something must be done to increase campus security.

The next SGA meeting will take place in the spring semester. Watch for more information on upcoming events.

Sacrificing Your Ability

by Robert L. Chamberlain III

Why does it seem like athletics and drinking go hand in hand? A large portion of the student body at Methodist College is involved in athletics. Why is it that these students are the ones that you usually find either passed out or sick in the restroom.

After a night of heavy drinking it must feel wonderful to have to wake up early, go to the athletic event (which is sometimes quite a distance away), and TRY to play your best. Who are you kidding? Almost every day you see people who cannot attend class or practice due to a hangover. It is even harder to maintain concentration, coordination, and basic skills.

Why not remain sober and perform well the next day? Why not play a good game, match, or tournament? Is drinking all that wonderful that you would sacrifice your sport, hobby, or even your career for it?

Which is worse: the athlete who takes drugs to enhance his ability or the one who lessens his potential by drinking? Both are wrong and should take a look at who they are hurting. The athlete taking performance enhancing drugs is hurting his natural competitors, his sport, and himself. The hung-over athlete is also hurting himself and his sport, most importantly he is hurting his team and even his school.

Is it worth sacrificing your sport, your team and your ability?

Funds Still Available

College Foundation Inc. (CFI) announced this week that educational loan funds are still available for the 1989-90 academic year. CFI has financial commitments from North Carolina banks in excess of its current estimates on loan needs for funding its three educational loan programs for 1989-90.

Stafford Loans for Students are for dependent or independent students and are based on financial need. Supplemental Loans for Students are for independent self-supporting students and are not based on financial need. PLUS Loans to Parents are for parents of dependent students and are not based on financial need. All three types of loans are offered under the North Carolina Insured Student Loan Program, with the State Education Assistance Authority providing the guarantee.

The loan funds are available for applications received by the Foundation up to 30 days before the end of the academic period specified in the loan request. According to their enrollment situation and financial situations, students may specify the full academic year, or specific semesters or quarters, as their loan periods.

Additional information and applications are available from the financial aid office at Methodist or directly from College Foundation Inc., 2100 Yonkers Road, P.O. Box 12100, Raleigh, NC 27605.

Skit Performed

"The Liberty Meeting, Being a Play of Fayetteville," a 10-minute bi-centennial skit by S.P. Miles, was performed three times Wednesday, Nov. 22 outside First Presbyterian Church on Bow Street. Show times were 7:00, 7:10, and 7:20 p.m.

The setting was Liberty Point Tavern in Fayetteville Nov. 24, 1789 — two days after a North Carolina delegation ratified the U.S. Constitution. The cast, made up of Methodist College faculty and students, included: Daniel Covell as William Barry Grove, Robert Bloodworth as John Hay, Paul Wilson as James Moore, John Sill as John Ingram, Parker Wilson as Capt. Robert Adams, and Anthony Delapa as Matthew Brooks.

Dr. Jack Peyrouse, professor of theatre and speech at Methodist College, was the director and Roberta High, a Methodist College student, was the costume designer.

Nominations for the Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award

Nominations are invited for the Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award funded by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation for all of the independent four-year colleges and universities in North Carolina. The campus winner will receive $1,000, and the institution receives $1,000 to support the enhancement of teaching.

Criteria

The award is intended as a recognition by peers and students of a faculty member who has made a distinct difference in the teaching climate of the college in such areas as model classrooms teaching, campus leadership, pioneering teaching methodology, creative course development, and/or instructional support.

Please send information letters — with supporting evidence — by Friday, January 19, 1990, to

Bell Tower Remains Silent

by Celeste VanHaelst

By 5 p.m. on the Methodist College campus, the school is still. Most day students are finished and night students have not yet arrived. The late afternoon sun hangs low behind the bell tower like a large orange ball. The tower stands tall, overlooking the campus. It is almost as if the entire campus is waiting for something, some signal, some sign, but the tower is silent. Bells have not chimed here since June of 1988.

Mr. Bill Billings, Director of Public Relations at Methodist College and a 1967 graduate, has fond memories of walking across the campus at 5 p.m. on his way to dinner.

He remembers hearing the bell tower chime five times and then finish with hymns. "It was a nice way to end the day," he says.

The bell tower is twenty-four years old. It was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Wilson F. Yarborough and was dedicated to Methodist College on May 31, 1965 during the school's graduation ceremony. Back then, the tower would chime every hour; and, at 5 p.m., it would play two or three hymns. These hymns could be heard as far away as two miles from the school. Several beautiful hymns were heard every day. Selections included "Bless This House," "The Lord's Prayer," "Jesus Loves Me," and "How Great Thou Art."

Throughout the 60's the tower had its problems. A reel-to-reel tape player controlled from the library would jam, and hymns would play continually as the system would not shut off. In 1974 the system broke down for good. At that time, the school was short on funds so a used system was installed. This system could chime, but could not play hymns.

In 1986 the tower was struck by lightning. It took ten months to fix. Then, in June 1988, the entire system quit and it had to be turned off. Since then the tower has not been repaired. The only feature of the tower that presently works is the light that shines from the top and illuminates the cross.

Fifteen years have gone by without the delightful sounds of hymns. Finally, someone has taken the initiative to do something about it. In January of this year, Mr. Billings found Schulmerich Carillons. This company in Sellersville, Pa. markets a high tech, fully modular bell tower system that features the sounds of cast bronze bells. If the school were to purchase the system, their choice of songs would be unlimited. The tower could even be programmed to play our alma mater. The only problem with getting a sophisticated system like this one, is its price. The Schulmerich system runs close to $7,000, which has not been allocated in the school's budget.

The Bell Tower at Methodist College is one of the schools most predominant figures. It is unfortunate that the school is unable to revamp the present system or purchase a new one. The hymns that used to bring a warm and cheerful feeling to the whole campus no longer sound, and the chimes that were once a tradition of Methodist College, are for the present students, merely a song that was never heard.

Opportunities In Government

by Historical/Political Science Dept.

Once again it is time for summer internships. Through the History and Political Science Department, students can sign up for one of two interesting and challenging internships. This summer C-Span and the state of North Carolina are offering opportunities to work in Washington, D.C. and North Carolina government.

C-Span, the national public affairs cable television channel, is looking for students who are interested in communications or political science. The C-Span interns will work for the station and experience Washington, D.C. The student could work in a number of departments such as marketing, programming or viewer information.

This internship is non-paid. The student must be responsible for finding a place to live. He or she may, however, be able to receive college credit for their time spent working for C-Span.

Also, this summer, the state of North Carolina is offering internships in state and local government. These internships are an opportunity to work full-time side by side with government on real projects. The internships last for 10 weeks. While working on the projects assigned to them, the interns will go on field trips and have seminars with government officials like Senator Terry Sanford.

The interns will live for this ten week period on the campus of Meredith College. The interns receive $200 dollars a month for their work and they can also receive college credit for the internship.

Any sophomore, junior or senior may apply for this internship. Twenty-eight students will be chosen from North Carolina and other states. All undergraduate disciplines will be accepted. The deadline for applying is January 26th, 1990.

If interested in obtaining valuable connections for future jobs and experience in government, please apply for these opportunities. Contact Dr. Check in T217 for more information.

Cadets Experience Bivouac

by Diane Quinn

What's a bivouac? That's the same question many of the junior year ROTC cadets were asking themselves on the weekend of the eleventh and twelfth. By definition, a bivouac is a temporary encampment made by soldiers in the field. The cadets not only spent the weekend camping in the field, but also completed two rigorous days of training. The training is designed to prepare cadets to attend six weeks of Advanced Camp at Ft. Bragg next summer. The two day operation, "Audie Murphy", began Saturday morning with the cadets receiving classes on tactical operations. During the exercises a randomly selected cadet was placed in charge of a fifteen person squad and tasked with the execution of an assigned task. Imagine that you're in charge of a squad and are just moving through the woods, when all of a sudden the ground starts exploding all around you. What would you do? If you want to know the answer, ask a cadet. He or she would know what to do to handle a scenario like that.

Saturday afternoon and evening the cadets received instruction on how to maneuver through the woods at night without being detected and afterwards attempted to do so. One group of cadets had to go out and secretly conduct a reconnaissance on a cache of Twix candy bars. They were instructed to carry them during the rest of the patrol operation. Only one cadet failed this portion of the mission when he gave in to temptation and devoured his Twix bar.

After bivouacing Saturday night, the cadets awoke early Sunday morning and traveled to the rifle ranges on Ft. Bragg where they received instruction on the firing of the M16-A1 rifle. The cadets then qualified with their weapons. In order to qualify with the weapon, a cadet must engage and hit a minimum of 23 out of 40 targets presented. The targets range in distance from 50 to 300 meters.

After lunch on Sunday the cadets traveled to the land navigation training site. Using a map, compass and their pace count, cadets were required to locate and record predetermined points in the woods.

Overall the exercise was a great training experience for all the cadets. When asked what she thought of the weekend, Cadet Michele Mitchell replied, "I was tired and physically challenged, but I really had a lot of fun and learned a lot." I'm sure that this sentiment is true for many of the cadets.

Share The Warmth

On Saturday, December 2nd, Student Affairs will be sponsoring the first annual "Share The Warmth" experience. This experience will be for the entire Methodist College community. Everyone will be cutting wood, stacking wood and delivering wood to Urban Ministry that afternoon.

The wood will go to the needy families of Cumberland County that have no heat for the winter and who often have to make the difficult decision of choosing between being warm for the winter or eating during the winter. This event will be important for the needy, but will also be meaningful to the community as they unselfishly give their time and energy for others.

A major part of any education is acquiring responsibility and learning to be "our brothers and sisters' keepers." Everyone is encouraged to participate in this out of the classroom learning experience. All who participate will receive much more than they will ever give!!!!

Date: Saturday, Dec. 2, 10:00 a.m.-until.

Location: Meet in Student Union for coffee and doughnuts and we will leave from there. If someone cannot be here at 10:00, messages will be left there to find our cutting location.

Food: Breakfast, snacks and lunch will be served.

Equipment: Please bring gloves to work in.

Trucks: Anyone with trucks that can be used, please contact Chris Ryan at Ext. 272.

Anyone with questions, should contact Kathy Woltz at Ext. 298. All clubs and organizations, teams, dorms, staff, faculty and administration are asked to help make this a meaningful day! This should be an incredible day of sharing!

Christmas Festivities

Tree Lighting Service

Everyone likes to be a part of the holiday spirit; and on Wednesday November 29th, Methodist College's students and faculty began their celebration!

At 6:30 p.m. they gathered in the Student Union for the tree lighting ceremony and then moved on to the Chapel for a service of lessons and carols. This included a special handbell choir performance that everyone enjoyed.

Students and faculty were invited to join in making crismen ornaments at the home of the campus minister, Claire Clyburn, Sunday November 26th. These ornaments were used during services on Wednesday.

Poinsettias

We will be using poinsettias to decorate the chapel during the season of Advent. If you would like to purchase a flower in honor or in memory of someone, you may do so. We will use them on December 3 and 10, and you may pick up your poinsettia after the 10th. The cost will be $10 per poinsettia. Call Claire at ext. 276 to place your order. Thank you for your support.

Love Feast

The Moravian Love Feast is scheduled for Sunday December 3rd at 6:00 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. in Hensdale Chapel. Tickets are required due to the limited amount of seating that is available.

The tickets may be obtained from Claire Clyburn, campus minister, on a first-come, first-served basis. We hope to see you there!

Business Activity Increases

Business activity in North Carolina increased 0.2 percent in the third quarter of 1989, according to the First Wachovia North Carolina Business Index. Over the past year the index has risen 1.9 percent.

Three of the index's four components improved during the quarter. Non-agricultural employment was up 0.2 percent. The average manufacturing workweek increased slightly to 40.7 hours. Initial claims for unemployment benefits were down 4.4 percent. The value of building permits, which reflect construction plans, declined 5.7 percent.

Nationally, non-agricultural employment was up to 0.5 percent for the quarter. Over the past year non-agricultural employment has grown 1.9 percent in the state and 2.3 percent in the nation.

North Carolina manufacturing employment was off 0.1 percent for the quarter. Employment was higher in the furniture, chemical, textile, non-electrical machinery and food processing sectors. Lower employment was reported in apparel, electrical machinery and lumber.

Non-manufacturing employment in the state increased 0.3 percent during the quarter. Higher employment was reported in wholesale and retail trade, government and services. Employment in construction was stable.

North Carolina's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for the quarter was 3.7 percent, down 0.2 percentage point from the previous quarter. The national rate was 5.2 percent, down 0.1 percentage point from the previous quarter.

The First Wachovia North Carolina Business Index measures the state's economic activity quarterly. Using 1976 as a base of 100, it reflects indicators of the state's economy. Data are adjusted to smooth the effects of historical seasonal fluctuations and other statistical aberrations.

North Carolina Business Index

Business activity in North Carolina increased 0.2 percent in third quarter. Data compiled by the Center for Applied Research, University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Monarch Basketball Teams Look Strong

Men's

Coach Dan Lawrence led his 1988-89 Methodist basketball team to the first winning season in a decade on the Monarch campus with a 14-13 record. Several key members of last year's squad have completed their eligibility, including the second leading scorer (Quinton Harshaw) and the third leading scorer and second leading rebounder (Cedric Brickey), so young players will be counted upon heavily to fill these vacated shoes.

The captains for this year's Monarchs will be Clinton Montford and Jim O'Malley. Montford led the nation in Division III rebounding last season and is the lone Senior on this team. Unfortunately for the Monarchs, Montford will only be eligible for the six games of the first semester. O'Malley is moving from guard to a wing forward slot and will be counted upon for his leadership, perimeter scoring and inside offense. Point guard Erick Hunt is a likely starter and his year's experience will be valuable as he runs the offense and gives the Monarchs outside scoring from the top-of-the-key. Jearl Gray and Ed McEnroe will spell Hunt. James Wear and Jason Baker will probably split the playing time at off-guard. Wear is the quicker of the two, while Baker gives dependable, heady play without making many mistakes.

Returner Jason Leinheiser is a probable starter at power forward, with freshman Scott Stoker seeing ample playing time at the position also. Montford will man the post position for the initial six games. "He'll only have six games," commented Lawrence, "and he wants to get everything he has and we want to get everything we can out of him." Randy Martin is the only true post player on the team (6'6" -202 lbs.) and he will assume the starting post job when Montford vacates. Hip bursts has hampered Martin in the pre-season, but he seems on the road to recovery now.

Lawrence has been encouraged by his team's play in two scrimmages and practices. "I am encouraged and pleasantly surprised to see the amount of unselfish team play. We are passing the ball well and the attitudes are great. As far as team play is concerned, we are ahead of where we were at this point last year. What Clinton Stoker and Martin do on the blocks will determine how successful we'll be."

The schedule will be tough in the early going as Lawrence has scheduled the first ten games on the road to avoid playing in the old gymnasium. The first home game is scheduled for January 15 and it is hoped that will be the inaugural men's game in the new Physical Activities Center. The season began at the Washington and Lee Tip-Off Tournament on November 17-18. Western Carolina and the Citadel provided tough non-conference challenges, while the DIAC teams appear as strong as ever. Methodist will host the DIAC Tournament February 23-24.

influence. Our newcomers have elevated our skill level and optimism for the game. The addition of Carl Higby to our program as an assistant coach has allowed for more intensive, individual work. Her presence has added a new dimension to all phases of our practices - four eyes see better than two! I have total confidence in her teaching strengths and capabilities and know that any tasks delegated to her will be done with detail and professionalism."

There are four upperclassmen on the 1989-90 Lady Monarch team and they will be the team captains. "These four have been instrumental in getting our program to the level that it is today. They deserve to be captains." Bindy Lellock and Linda Eberly are Seniors and three-year starters. Lellock will start at the point guard position and has shown a great amount of leadership, court savvy and confidence in running the Monarch offenses and defenses. Eberly is a strong shooting left handed wing player. A knee injury and back injury have sidelined the blonde bomber for several weeks of the pre-season, but she is on the mend and resumed workouts with a vigor and desire and intensity. Junior Rebecca Cartrette will likely start at the power forward position. She has become a defensive stalwart on the front line and is showing strong offensive play in the point. Fellow junior Nancy Ramsey is playing her best basketball ever in a Monarch uniform and she and Lellock will direct the team's offensive and defensive systems.

Also returning for the Monarchs are sophomores Claudia Lucas, Angie Conrad and Kim Moore. Lucas started a year ago at the off-guard spot and will also see action at the wing forward this season. Her consistent outside shooting and defensive play will add strength to the perimeter game. Moore sat out her freshman season after reconstructive knee surgery, and has fought hard on the comeback trail this year. A bout with tendonitis has delayed her return, but it seems the worst hurdles have been surmounted and she's ready to contribute an accurate outside shooting touch to the perimeter game. Conrad played soccer and has been late joining the squad. She appears speedier and quicker than ever and will see playing time at a wing.

Newcomers include Daphne Akridge, Rucanna Hybl, Anne Uleman, Patty Evers, Wendy Jordan and Christy Condon. Akridge will start at the two guard. She seems to have adjusted well to the college game and her quickness and long-range shooting will bolster the Monarchs on both ends of the court. Hybl and Uleman will give Methodist a power inside game that has been missing in past seasons. Hybl is more of a power player than Uleman using her quickness and finesse to maneuver inside. Evers and Condon will see playing time at the forward slots. Both have shown tremendous improvement in the workouts to date. Jordan will contribute a good outside shooting touch to the Monarch offensive arsenal.

"This team has a nice blend of experience and young talent," evaluates Wiggs. "They are becoming a very cohesive unit on the floor. We should be a quicker, better shooting team this season. I believe we will be a good running squad and sport a strong aggressive defense. The hustle, enthusiasm and coachability of these players make them a pleasure to coach. Our schedule will be a competitive one. The conference is as competitive as ever and NAIA schools such as Gardner-Webb, Coker College and Mt. Olive will provide stiff challenges. Participating in the Muskogum Tournament (New Concord, Ohio) in early December will expose us to inter-regional competition and give a gauge of our standing against such teams at this point in time." Washington and Jefferson (PA) and Adrian (MI) will join Muskingum and Methodist in this tournament.

Storms Rising

by Robert L. Chamberlain III
John Storms captured his fourth All-American title at the Division III Nationals for cross-country. The other three All-American honors were gained through track, but this was his first and Methodist College's first for cross-country. On Saturday, November 18, in Rock Island, Illinois, the site for the 1989 Cross-Country Nationals, he finished 5th out of a field of 180 of the toughest runners in the nation among division III schools with a time of 24:30 for five miles. The winning time was 23:58, making it a fairly close finish. His fifth place finish in cross-country nationals was the highest finish ever for the south.

Storms, who is also a very accomplished track runner in the 800, 1500 and 5000, is from Boca Raton, Florida.

CAMPUS RECREATION INTRAMURAL PROGRAM

by Danielle Baker

The student recreation program of Methodist college is striving to reach a point of prominence on campus. A wide range of recreational activities have been provided to serve the needs of all students, faculty and staff. This program provides activities for team, individual, dual, co-recreational, structured participation. Intramural sports at Methodist College will consistently be one of the most popular and valuable programs for students living on and off campus.

It has been a busy semester for C.R.I.M.P. to say the least. Intramural soccer went well considering the small amount of teams that entered this year. The winners of the soccer tournament were "The Strikers".

Participants were: Joe Nelson, Chris Strobel, Jeff Poe, Hiro Matsumura, Mike Ansaroff, Mike Stone, Jamie Gerber.

Roy Harold was the winner of Punt, Pass and Kick. Congrats Roy!!!

There has been a constant battle between two teams in Flag football, The Greyhounds and N.W.A. Due to a short season, flag football had another tournament. The first tournament was dominated by the Greyhounds. Time was a factor in this game, but the Greyhounds managed to hold their ground and walk away with a victory over N.W.A. (37-20). Team captain, Amman Thomas says, "The game was a team effort, with additional credit given to quarterback Lamont McGriff, William Spain and Ron Walker."

As for the second tournament, the Greyhounds were tounded by N.W.A. II - "The Bad Boys." Inside sources say that time was not on the Greyhounds' side. Quarterback and team captain Steve Shinhoster led N.W.A. II to victory with a score of 26-20.

Participants of the two teams are: The Greyhounds: Amman Thomas, William Spain, Lamont McGriff, Sean Cunningham, Clinton "Tip" Mumford, Joe McKern, Ron Walker, Kevin Mobley, Jim O'Brien, Rick Gibson, Rich Wittman, Dan Maher.

N.W.A. II - "The Bad Boys": Steve Shinhoster, Jearl Gray, Erick Hunt, John Ek, Jamie Gerber, Cory Armstrong, Henry Dick, Paul Bryant, Dave Tarantino.

C.R.I.M.P. has decided that the only way to solve this, is to have a C.R.I.M.P. "Monarch Bowl" Championship. Which will decide the true winners of Flag Football 1989. Keep in touch for details!!!!

The following events are available for immediate sign-up in the C.R.I.M.P. office: Table Tennis (S, D, MD), Spades (D, and MD), Chess & Checkers.

To begin next semester, C.R.I.M.P. plans to sponsor pool, billiards, six-man volleyball, and variations of basketball, just to name a few.

All the winners of the mentioned events and events to come will be awarded with an official C.R.I.M.P. Championship T-Shirt, and the teams name will be mounted on a plaque inside the C.R.I.M.P. office.

The staff members of C.R.I.M.P. would like to apologize for the inconvenience we have caused any one for the scheduling of late game times. We are looking to better the situation in the near future. We would also like to extend our invitation to the staff and faculty of Methodist College to join in on the fun!!!
